

In Tuesday's election

Voters to pick mayor, council, administrators

WILLIAM M. OAKLEY

ANP Staff Writer

The race for mayor will occupy center stage Tuesday as Romulus voters cast ballots in the city general election.

Incumbent Mayor William M. Oakley, now finishing his first term in office, is being challenged by Mel Morgan, local businessman and developer.

In the city primary election, Oakley led Morgan 1,744 to 1,157 votes, with the third man in the race, Harry W. Nelson, garnering 204 votes.

Although Oakley as the incumbent remains the favorite to retain his seat, many political observers expect it to go down to the wire.

Also of major interest in next week's election is the contest for treasurer. Incumbent Helen M. Gallien is being challenged by Beverly McAnally, veteran council member, who bested the treasurer by a 1,108 to 1,093 vote margin in the primary election.

Gallien was finance director for the city under former Treasurer John B. Lewkowicz, who lost out in the primary last September.

The battle for the treasurer's seat also is anticipated to be very close.

In the race for clerk, Leonard J. Folmar, who has been in office for the last nine years, is being opposed by Jerry Kubiak, ordinance officer under former mayors Terry Trout and James Stewart.

During the primary, only Folmar and Kubiak were on the ballot.

With all seven council seats up for grabs, the field of 14 candidates shapes up as follows: incumbents Mary Ann Banks, Fred "Junior" Block, Gerry Canejo, Ray Cantrell, Mary L. Carter, and Jimmie C. Raspberry. The seventh seat, occupied by McAnally who is running for treasurer, should be a close fight between Edward A. Rush, Barry Baumann and Richard K. Yeramian.

Rush, a well-known city florist, has made a point of serving as a public watch dog at City Council meetings. His recent challenge of the City Council for holding a closed meeting in violation of the recently enacted Open Meetings Act resulted in the judge indicating a ruling in his favor. The lawsuit ended when council agreed to pay his legal fees.

Also in the running for council seats are Wayne Avery, current school board president; Richard F. Campbell, who has been instrumental in promoting activities of We the People; Charles J. Dick Jr.; Edward D. Fall, former director of the city building department; and Shirlee M. Helms.

Argument ends in shooting death of Wyandotte man

Wayne County Sheriff Department detectives are looking for a man who reportedly shot and killed his best friend during an argument Monday night in Romulus.

The victim, Ulysses Grant Meade of Wyandotte, was shot in the head in a house at 15802 Springhill. He was pronounced dead at the scene by investigating officers.

According to Lt. Terry Shenk of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department, Meade and four others were visiting at the Springhill address when an argument between the victim and the suspect erupted.

"We are presently questioning the people who were at the scene," Lt. Shenk said, "and we know who shot the victim. However, we can not release the suspect's name at present."

The suspect took off in his car after the shooting. His vehicle was later recovered in the downriver area.

"The witnesses have told us that Meade and the suspect were very close friends, in fact, they were the best of friends," Lt. Shenk said. "We are continuing our investigation and the questioning of the witnesses."

Lt. Shenk did say that the victim and his friends had been invited to the house by a babysitter. He said that his department was called to the scene around 6 p.m. Monday.

School officials hope for tax renewal OK

Tuesday voters of the Romulus school district will go the polls and cast ballots on a 9-mill tax renewal proposal for five years that is termed "vital" by School Supt. James Garfield.

The nine mills in question represent a fourth of the school district's total of 36.15 mills and generates about $2,124,000 in revenue for the city's public schools. Should the millage fail, its effect would be "devastating," said the superintendent.

"In dollars lost, the nine mills means 90 teachers, or 160 support personnel, or 28 school days, or the closing of both of our junior high schools," he explained.

Last June, school district voters turned down the 9-mill levy by a narrow margin. Following the election, many voters said it was not made clear that the proposal was a renewal.

With the city election also taking place on Tuesday, school officials are hopeful that the larger turnout will bring out enough voters who care what happens to their school system.

A Citizens Advisory Committee composed of local concerned citizens met Oct. 2 at Bath Elementary School to hear talks by Garfield and his staff and to plan how it could best inform the general public on the importance of the millage levy.

The superintendent explained that passage of the 9-mill levy would keep operation of the public schools at the same level as currently exists.

He stressed that collection of tax dollars, should the millage pass, would not begin until next year.

Schools receive Right to Read aid

The Romulus Community Schools is the recipient of a $1,830 grant from the Michigan Department of Education Right to Read Program.

The allotment was given specifically for the purchase of paperback books.

Last April, South Junior High School was selected to implement the purchase and circulation of the books. Parents and students, along with members of the SJH staff, played a significant part in the selection of the books.

Students and parents who volunteered to be part of this paperback buying spree at the Ludington Press in Detroit were Bobby Bales, Dana Knowlson, Kim Metevia, Jim Shehan and his mother, Mrs. Tommie Shehan, and John Beck and his mother, Mrs. Mary Ellen Beck Langdeau. Mrs. Portia Duke and Mrs. Rosemary Hedin were part of the staff committee.

Henrietta Lewis, librarian and committee head, assisted the special education classe in conducting a survey among the ninth grade students. Students listed their favorite books, authors and subject matter. This survey proved useful when the paperback committee went to Ludington Press to purchase more than 1,500 books.

The books are now housed in the SJH Library in the paperback reading room. The room is open throughout the day for the use of the students and members of the community. An example of the use of these books can be found in a seventh grade English class. Each class has a 15-minute leisure reading period at the beginning of every class.

More than 1,000 students, parents and teachers have taken advantage of the paperback reading room, and that number is expected to increase during the coming year.

Candidates reveal newest of 'revelations'

By CARRIE YOUNG
ANP Staff Writer

It's an election year, a time when political candidates seldom seem at a loss for words.

Romulus is no exception.

On Nov. 6 voters will again be asked to vote for the person of their choice to carry on the duties and responsibilities of mayor, clerk and treasurer and the functions of seven city council positions.

Twenty candidates are vying for voter attention. But it appears because of the glutted race some feel obligated to reveal only the newest of revelations. Malfeasance, misfeasance and nonfeasance are favorite charges among the challengers.

In the mayoral race, for instance, challenger Mel Morgan is questioning incumbent William M. Oakley's ability to manage budget affairs.

At a public forum, Morgan leveled the yet unsubstantiated charge that the city's projected general fund is expected to operate with a $400,000 deficit.

However, John Shea, acting city finance director, said the city has never, is not, and isn't anticipated to operate in the red.

"Anyone can use any figure they want and say 'this' may be a deficit," Shea said, "but this city — as any government — has periodic budget revisions to ensure against a deficit."

The city's total general fund budget for 1978 reached $6,489,537. Due to a tightening economy, Shea noted, the 1979-80 budget is anticipated to be cut to $6,108,441.

Morgan and Oakley did battle over community comparison figures, with Morgan comparing Romulus to Inkster questioning why Inkster, with a comparable budget, could offer more in services than Romulus.

"We have about the same budget as Inkster, yet Inkster has more to offer in recreation and other services than Romulus. I ask you where did we go wrong," Morgan said.

Oakley skirted the issue preferring to highlight the dissimilarities. He noted that Inkster was chartered about 20 years ago, as opposed to Romulus' 10-year-old charter. And, he emphasized, Inkster is 4-square mile area as compared to Romulus' 36 square miles.

From that word exchange, Oakley went on to draw his own comparison of Romulus and Dearborn. He said, since Dearborn became a charter city some 50 years ago, it has had four mayors. Romulus in one fifth that time has had four mayors.

See related stories on Page A-3.

That comparison served primarily as Oakley's roundabout method to appeal for community stability and his own re-election.

Challengers, for the most part, answered questions with more questions. Jerry Kubiak, candidate for city clerk, enjoyed the opportunity of criticizing incumbent Leonard Folmar's handling of the spiraling operational budget.

Kubiak said the clerk's budget had climbed from $76,000 in 1974 to $133,000, asking why.

According to finance department records, in 1976-77 the clerk's department assumed the responsibility of rented equipment and copy machine operations, activities formerly outside the clerk's area of responsibility.

The clerk's budget is not established at $133,000, as Kubiak claimed, but at $102,654 down from $113,917 in 1978, according to the finance department.

"The big jump came in 1976 when that department assumed a lot of other responsibilities it didn't have before," Shea said.

Folmar ignored Kubiak's charges. Instead he flowered his speech with talk of team spirit and hopes for a better tomorrow, leaving the debate of issues to others.

In the treasurer's race, incumbent Helen M. Gallien boasted of the city's elimination of its 1-percent tax collection fee.

Her claim, confirmed by the finance department, seemed somewhat incomplete Shea said. The cost for collecting those taxes must still be assumed by the city, and is now actually being absorbed by its general fund, Shea said.

Gallien also took credit for substantial increases in revenue from interest earned on city investments and for money collected in delinquent personal property taxes.

The finance department confirmed Mrs. Gallien's claim. Since November 1977, according to Shea, the treasurer's department has collected more than $160,000 in delinquent property taxes as compared to an audited $46,391 collected from 1975 through 1977.

Interest earned from the city investments, made from 1976 through 1977, was $26,000 compared to $74,000 earned under the efforts of the current administration, according to finance department records.

While Mrs. Gallien praised herself for a job well done, in the same breath, she said the position of treasurer is antiquated, an unnecessary expense to taxpayers, and should be abolished, "although I think I'm the most qualified for the job."

Mrs. Gallien dodged her opponent Beverly McAnally's inquiries about Things that matter: Healing powers are within us

By GEORGE PLAGENZ
United Feature Syndicate

One of the first indications that the healing services at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Philadelphia's red light district were leaving their mark came when the houses of prostitution started moving out.

The straw that broke the madams' backs was the revelation that one popular lady of the night, who had been drawing much male business to the area, had left her chosen profession and was now playing the organ for the church's Sunday afternoon services!

"Some of my cynical friends said the houses of ill repute were merely moving to better locations," said Dr. Alfred Price, who had just become rector of St. Stephen's in that year — 1942. "Well, at least I got them out of my parish, which is something the police commissioner had not been able to do."

Besides the conversion of prostitutes, homosexuals and unchurched people — spiritual healings — Price also witnessed physical healings among the many who came to the midday services each Thursday.

"But I was having no success with organic diseases," Price said. "Functional disorders were yielding to my ministrations, but not congenital or incurable diseases."

Then, after the conclusion of one healing service, Price noted a young couple with a baby waiting to see him.

The child, the parents told Price, was spastic — unable to grow or develop properly.

"I took the baby from them and carried her to the altar," Price recalled. "I asked the mother and father to kneel at the chancel rail. "As I prayed, the baby began to cry. She kept on crying — even after I returned her to her parents. She cried for two solid days and nights. The parents were frantic. But when she stopped crying on the second day, a perfect cure had taken place."

Baby Nancy grew up into a fine, robust little girl and woman.

This was the breakthrough Price had been waiting for — and praying for.

"If God can heal one organic disease, He can heal them all," he said to himself. "What is true for one person is potentially true for all."

In the 37 years since, Price has seen people healed of everything from colds to cancer, earache to epilepsy, arthritis to chronic alcoholism, mental depression to mental derangement.

Now 79, Price is pastor emeritus of St. Stephen's and International Warden of the Order of St. Luke the Physician, an order whose 5,000 members include doctors, nurses, clergymen and laymen.

They believe that the healing power of God can be channeled through prayer groups, the blessing of the doctor's work and the laying on of hands.

Price now travels around the country conducting healing missions.

How does he explain his healings?

A huge man with a booming voice ("he looks more like a retired stockbroker than a healer," says one observer), Price doesn't explain them.

"God has promised that his healing power is available to everyone," he said. "All the healing agencies are buried within us, waiting to be released. All I can do is help people appropriate that healing power."

When Price began his ministry in a run-down, poverty area of Philadelphia, he went around the neighborhood introducing himself — in cheap boarding-houses, tenement attics, even saloons.

Some people he saw wanted money, some a friendly listening ear for their troubles.

"But a surprising number," he said, "wanted me to pray for them."

It got Price to thinking that if more ministers knew how to pray, they could do more good for their people than by simply offering their human assistance.

He likes to quote what Dr. Richard Cabot, a renowned Boston physician, once told his seminary class at Harvard: "Ministers, if they really knew how to pray, could probably do 75 percent of the healing work of physicians."

"We ministers must work harder at prayer," said Price, "not only praying more often but becoming expert in prayer. We wouldn't tolerate a doctor who went about his work fumbling and uncertain, not knowing what to expect — and not expecting much.

"But that is the way many of us go about our praying. Small wonder so much praying is done with such little result."

"Even the hairs of your head are all numbered." (Matthew 10:30 RSV)

Some years ago when I was a pastor in Texas, the chamber of commerce of my city sponsored a parade. Our church decided to enter a float. It is the only float I ever helped build, but it did teach an important spiritual lesson. On the side of the float in large red letters we had "Christ Is Risen." Behind the letters was a background of solid white, made up of thousands of white napkins stuffed into the holes of a chicken-wire frame. When the float went by, only the red letters stood out.

One difference between persons and God is that we see only the foreground, but God sees also the background. He identifies every single person individually. He is the one who knows the sparrows and the hairs of our head. Most of us may see ourselves in the category of the human background, but God does not see nameless and faceless space fillers. He sees His children, each one loved and each one important.

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, we are grateful that Your love sees each of us individually as Your children. Help us to share that same love with each other in Jesus Christ. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: God values and cherishes each of His children.

RSVP requires senior volunteers

For many senior citizens, telephone reassurance is the only direct contact with the outside world. RSVP (Retired Senior Volunteer Program) of Catholic Social Services has received a grant of $41,288 from Detroit-Wayne County Area Agency on Aging to provide such telephone reassurance.

RSVP represents an ideal combination. Retired elderly who wish to remain active volunteer to telephone disabled, homebound, isolated elderly to check on their well-being.

RSVP currently is recruiting 500 additional volunteers to service Telephone Reassurance clients. Person 60 years of age or older should contact RSVP at 883-2100, ext. 358. This type of service has been credited with saving many lives by dispatching medical help in time.

Volunteers will make the calls from agencies which have telephones available for this purpose. A specialized training program for volunteers will begin in November so that volunteers are ready to contact some 2,500 elderly by January.

Telephone Reassurance volunteers will be given 20 hours of technical and theoretical training in counseling techniques to help cope with loneliness, family problems, fixed income consumer counseling, energy relief counseling, crisis intervention and identifying resources for information and referral.

Each RSVP volunteer is expected to work four hours a week. Upon completion of the training RSVP volunteers who successfully complete the course will receive a certificate of achievement and one institutional credit in Community Services through Wayne County Community College.

Romulus tax levy: Second to last

Romulus is second to the bottom on a list of municipalities of Wayne County, and considering the list shows millage levies "high to low," the lower the better, said Dave Krause, Romulus's city assessor.

Second to the bottom of the list Romulus is reported to have one of the lowest city millages in Wayne County, second only to Livonia.

While Romulus has, for instance a millage levy of 11.85, Livonia is at 11.414, those communities contrast with Detroit which has a millage levy of 32.805.

Here's a complete breakdown of the 33 municipalities of Wayne County:

Krause credits industrial growth with low millage

Romulus residents may tip their hats to industry in their community, says Dave Krause, who credits industry for keeping the city's millage rate lower than most communities in Wayne County.

Krause, director of the tax assessor's office, said records for this year show Romulus is the only municipality of Wayne County managing to lower its city millage, dropping from a 12.2 levy in 1978 to 11.8 in 1979.

"Residents should realize that it is the industrial development that's been the main reason they enjoy such low taxes," said Krause. He noted that the survey, taken by the county, did not include millages levied by school districts.

The average city millage rate for Wayne County this year, according to Krause, is 18.54.

"We're well below the average," Krause said, "with only Livonia lower than us." Livonia levied 11.1 mills for 1979, according to the survey report.

Krause also compared Romulus's method of collection of property taxes to Wayne County's, noting that on the average, Wayne County collects 54.5 percent of its taxes from the residential community, 45.5 percent from commerce.

On the other hand, Romulus collects 28.1 percent of taxes from its residential community, 71.9 percent from commerce.

Of those taxes collected in Romulus, 64.3 percent is distributed to the school districts, 19.4 percent to the city and 16.3 percent to the county.

Krause compared that to the county's disbursement of property tax dollars — 52.2 percent earmarked for schools, another 32.9 percent targeted to city, townships and villages and 14.9 percent for county operations.

Romulus's 1979 millage is lower than it was in 1971, when it was set at 12.5. In 1972 the millage was set at 12.5, again, in 1973 at 12, 1974 at 12.4. Then in 1975 the millage was raised to 13. But in 1976 through 1977 the millage remained at 13. From 1978 until today it has consistently been lowered.

Local officials at a "Meet the Candidates" public forum last week expressed concern about stepping up their efforts to promote more residential growth in the community.

And while that may satisfy local officials' concerns for an aesthetically pleasing city, finance director John Shea said single family and multiple housing units are a "financial drain" on the community.

"I'm not saying it's bad, if that's what they feel is important and needed, but strictly on a financial basis, it has a negative impact on the community," Shea said.

Diabetes testing offered

Free screening tests for diabetes, the nation's third leading cause of death by disease, will be offered by the Oakwood Hospital Family Medical Center, 19130 Sumpter Rd., south of Belleville, as part of a state-wide observance of Diabetes Detection Week next week.

The test, which takes but a few minutes to have blood drawn from the arm, will be available during regular business hours — 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, (Nov. 5, 6, 8, and 9), from 10:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Wednesday (Nov. 7) and from 9 a.m. to 12 noon Saturday (Nov. 10).

An appointment is not necessary. For more information, call 699-2094.

The tests are not available for persons under 12 years of age. Those who are between 12 and 18 should be accompanied by an adult.

Before the test, a brief registration form must be completed. The results of the test are forwarded to the American Diabetes Association, which, in turn, sends results of "positive" tests only to both the patient and his physician.

It is recommended that meals high in carbohydrate content, be eaten two hours before the test. A suggested breakfast menu is orange juice, cornflakes or oatmeal, milk, sugar, toast, jelly, egg (if desired) and coffee or tea (if desired).

For lunch, a suggested menu consists of orange juice, vegetable soup, saltine crackers, lunch meat or cheese, bread with butter or oleo, salad or vegetable, coffee or tea (if desired), and ice cream.

Between the meal and the test, the patient should not drink anything (except water), eat, smoke, or chew gum, candy or cough drops.

Diabetes is a disease in which the body cannot produce sufficient insulin in order to convert the sugars and starches consumed into energy necessary for normal body functions.

There are two types of diabetes — adult and juvenile. The juvenile diabetic is unable to make insulin at all, whereas the adult diabetic produces some insulin, but not enough.

Common symptoms of diabetes are frequent urination, abnormal thirst, rapid weight loss, extreme hunger, drowsiness, general weakness, blurry vision and slow-healing infections.

While diabetes occurs at any age, prime candidates are persons in the "high risk" group — those who are over 40, overweight, related to a diabetic, or women who have given birth to a baby weighing more than 9 pounds.

However, some diabetics, especially those who are middle-aged or older, may experience none of these signs. Symptoms usually attributable to aging — that "run-down feeling," for example — may, in fact, indicate diabetes.

Diabetes is the leading cause of new blindness and a major factor in heart disease, circulatory problems and kidney disorders.

In Brief

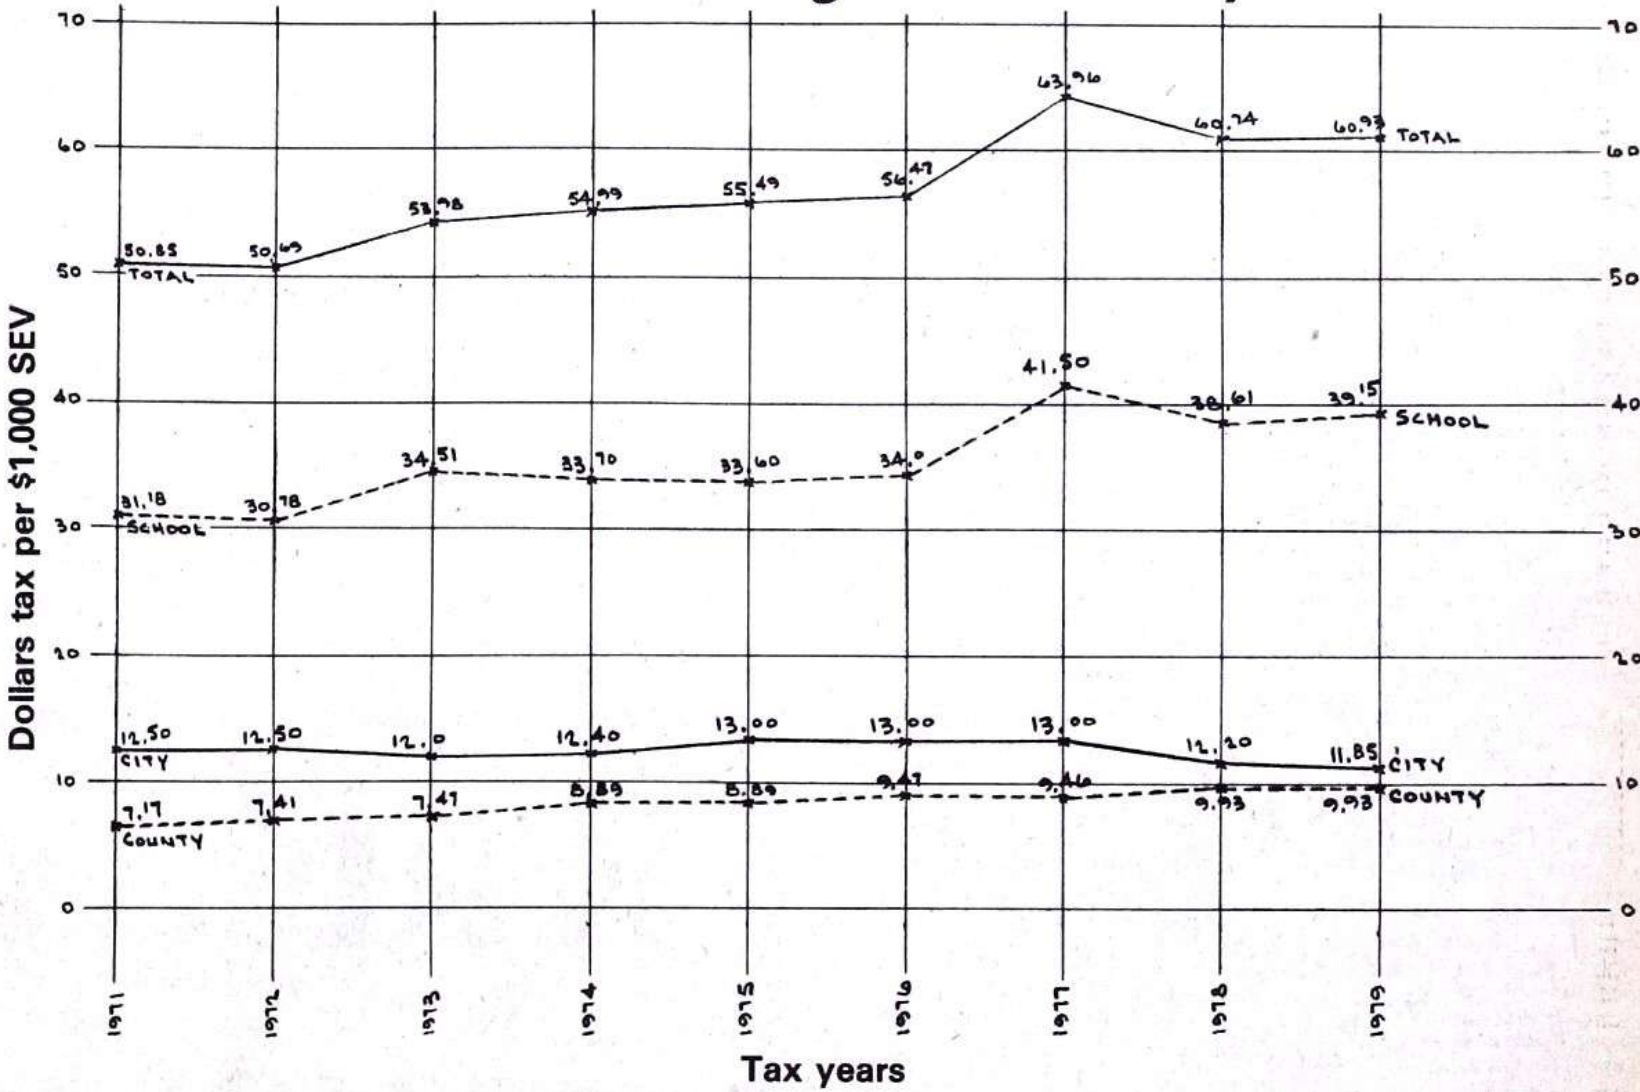

An appeal for area residents to aid the Michigan Heart Association by purchasing Christmas cards was made by Dr. S. Phillip Grillo, local retired physician, who is state chairman for their promotion.

About half of the proceeds will go to research for heart disease and public education, he said.

Dr. Grillo said brochures promoting the Christmas cards have been mailed to almost every household in the state and urged that checks and money order for their purchase be made to the enclosed address.

Super sewer design cost to $850,808

Five Western Wayne County communities will have to come up with $850,808 to pay for design costs for the proposed Super Sewer in their area.

The information was contained in a letter last week from George Wilhelmi, field engineer for Morris Levine — Associates of Detroit, to Henry Redman, director of the Western Five Community Conference. The firm serves as engineers for Van Buren Township.

Four of the five member communities making up the newly-formed Western Five are included — Van Buren Township, Romulus, Sumpter Township and Huron Township. The fifth member, Belleville, has its own sewer system and will not participate in the sewer project.

The fifth county suburb scheduled to pay for design costs is Canton Township, which also is a member of the Canton, Van Buren, Sumpter Water & Sewage Disposal Authority.

Wilhelmi suggested that Redman, either through the Western Five or the disposal authority, work out some type of bonding, grant, or combination thereof, to pay for the design costs. He asked that such a plan be presented to the executive board of the Western Five for consideration.

The Western Five attempts to work out mutual problems for its members, obtain large federal grants for mutual projects, and to save money through large purchases in such areas as insurance and equipment.

Belleville Mayor Justin Emerson explained that the city currently has a combined sewer system for Main and Columbia streets. He said Belleville must include the entire city in the $87,000 federal grant from the Wayne County Department of Public Works for an evaluation of its sewer needs.

Once that is accomplished, Belleville hopes to get a larger grant to separate the two sewers, thereby stopping overflow into Belleville Lake during heavy rains, the mayor said.

A breakdown of design costs for the five communities as outlined by the Federal EPA are Canton Township, $307,843; Van Buren Township, $303,544; Romulus, $16,659; Sumpter Township, $112,397; and Huron Township, $110,365.

Combines public, volunteer work

Multi-service neighborhood center opens

The special multi-service neighborhood center offering an integrated package of needed services to Downriver residents had its official dedication Oct. 18.

The new Downriver Human Service Center (HSC) resulted from combined public and voluntary efforts to bring a variety of social programs to thousands of Downriver residents.

Speaking at the ceremony were Jane Moeller, senior vice-president of First Federal Savings & Loan and chairperson of the Board of Directors, United Community Services of Metropolitan Detroit; Clarice Lackey, representing United Community Services-Wayne Division Board; Frank Lada, mayor of Allen Park, chairperson of Downriver Community Conference Board of Directors and chairperson of Wayne County Community Development Block Grant Mayors Advisory Council; Curt Boller, supervisor of Brownstown Township, local governmental applicant for Wayne County Community Development Block Grant Funds; Rev. Ted Mentor, Pastor of Center for Christian Services and representative of the HSC Community Advisory Council; James Curran, director of Wayne County Office of Program Development and Coordination who spoke on behalf of Commissioner Dick Manning, chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners; Jack Cudlip, director of Forward Planning, McClouth Steel and United Foundation Capital Fund Division; and Lillian Fisher, senior present at Hand School.

Big Brothers/Big Sisters; Catholic Social Services of Wayne County; Downriver Community Conference Senior Center, Chore and Homemakers Services for Seniors; Downriver YMCA; Downriver YWCA; Family & Neighborhood Services for Wayne County (Building & Program Administration) and Resource Development Center for the Developmentally Disabled; Out-Wayne County Nutritional Program for Senior Citizens; Out-Wayne County Youth Services Coalition, Inc. (Administration, Community Education, and Home Attention Program); Wayne County Office of Manpower; and Well Being Services to the Aging.

A core or central staff, auxiliary to the participating agency staff will offer clients assistance in finding appropriate services to meet their needs. The central staff includes maintenance, Ben Grimes and Nahvella Smith; office assistance, Kim Bond and Elaine Kalman; child care, Carolyn Gasiewski; intake/outreach, Reba Case and Colin Horn.

A planning committee organized by UCS and composed of local community persons and now a community advisory council representative of the participating agencies, residents and local governments works with center Director, Louise Comey, in the operation of the facility.

Persons needing additional information can call 782-0600.

Now is time to prepare for winter heating season

"Now, before freezing temperatures arrive, is the time to prepare your home for the coming heating season," says Gene Waggener, manager of Consumers Power Company's metro region.

Although Consumers Power anticipates having sufficient energy supplies to meet all demands this winter, Waggener recommends that adequate preparation and wise use will help keep down your energy bill.

Waggener said there are a number of steps you can take to insure that your house will be warm and snug during cold winter months. He suggested you:

- Check the amount of insulation in the ceiling. If your house has less than 2½ inches in the ceiling or attic, you should add a minimum of 6 inches.

- Check cracks between window frames and between door frames and the wall, and caulk them if necessary.

- Weatherstrip outside doors or doors to unheated areas. A one-eighth inch crack around a standard door frame allows as much heat to escape as a hole the size of a grapefruit.

- Check on whether all windows are equipped with storm windows or plastic that provides an outside "second pane."

- If you can't remove room air conditioners from windows, weatherstrip around them and cover them.

- Check dampers on fireplaces, kitchen and bathroom exhaust fans and dryer vents to see that they close tightly when not in use.

- And, of course, prepare your furnace for winter operation now. Don't wait until something goes wrong this winter. Have a reputable serviceman check your heating system for possible leaks and for efficient operation. This will save you money in the long run," Waggener advised. "Here are some furnace preparation steps that will make for a cozier winter."

- Check the blower fan and replace air filters.

- Clean the furnace humidifier and check and clean the thermostat.

- Check air ducts for leaks and blockages.

- "After you have prepared your furnace and heating system," Waggener said, "a number of other ways are open to you to help hold down heating costs." He recommended:

- Setting your thermostat as low as is reasonably comfortable. Turning the thermostat down one degree can save about 3 percent of your annual heating usage.

- Reduce the thermostat setting at night or when the house is unoccupied for more than a few hours.

- Close drapes in the evening and on cloudy days and open them on sunny days on windows that face the sun.

- Close off unoccupied rooms.
- Make sure that furniture or drapes do not obstruct the free movement of air from heat registers and cold air returns.

- Close all exterior windows and doors including those to your attic, basement and garage when the heating system is operating.

At dedication

Frank Lada, the mayor of Allen Park and chairperson of the Downriver Community Conference Board of Directors and the Wayne County Community Development Block Grant Advisory Council, was on hand Oct. 18 when the new Downriver Human Service Center was dedicated. The center will provide a variety of services for Downriver youths, adults and senior citizens.

Giggle Stick is recalled

CBS Toys, a division of CBS Inc. of New York City, is voluntarily recalling four million units of a toy which may pose a choking hazard to children, the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission has announced.

The toy, called the Gabriel "Giggle Stick", consists of a hollow, yellow plastic tube which, when shaken, produces noises by means of a metal reed fastened inside an interior plastic cylinder.

Young children can remove the red end-caps of the toy, exposing the interior plastic cylinder which houses the small reed inside. Some reeds have fallen out of those "Giggle Sticks" designed with open-end caps.

Since March 1979, three children have choked on the reeds, according to CBS Toys. No injuries have resulted.

The "Giggle Sticks" have been manufactured since December 1978 and sold in variety stores nationwide for less than $2. The toys are advertised as suitable for children ages 3 and older.

Parents should return the toys to their retailers for a refund or a new "Giggle Stick" which has been redesigned to eliminate the safety hazard.

Consumers also can receive a refund or a new "Giggle Stick" by mailing their used ones to Gabriel Industries, Longmeadow Road, P.O. Box 980, Hagerstown, Md. 21740.

In retail stores, consumers can identify a redesigned "Giggle Stick" by looking for the words, "New, Improved" on the red cardboard flag wrapped around the toy.

Anyone requiring information about the recall can contact the CPSC's toll-free hotline at 800-638-8326.

Involved in student activities

Pamela Horne finds her niche at EMU

What do you do with a major in student activities? Pamela Horne has found a niche as the new Eastern Michigan University Campus Life officer.

Actually, Horne has a bachelor's degree in speech communication and human relations and master's degree in counseling from the University of Kansas in Lawrence, Kan. But she really was an active student.

"I had excellent role models. The dean of women at the University of Kansas ran some of the activities in her office there were 8 or 10 good role models. I practically majored in activities," Horne said. "When I graduated there was a slot open for someone to work with sororities. I decided to stay on."

For most students, campus involvement runs in four stages, according to Horne. Freshmen initially may be anxious about whether they have time for campus activities. One or two months into the semester, they may believe that they have time for campus activities. One or two months into the semester, they may believe that they're missing something and decide to join an activity. Then comes the choice process.

"Some students go overboard and join everything. Then they have to narrow it down," Horne said.

Once a student has chosen an activity or two, he or she can participate in some of the fun and excitement of student leadership.

"Some students say they learn more from being in committees than classes," Horne said. "Certainly, it's a good learning experience to work with budgets and people."

Usually, by the end of the junior year, definitely by the end of the senior year, there's a burning out period when students have to start thinking about what they'll do after graduation. Students might drop all activities at this point or narrow down their participation to a group of particular interest.

Horne is interested in making students' involvement in activities as constructive as possible. Her responsibility as a Campus Life officer covers three major areas. She is involved in student leadership development for the entire campus. This program includes the organization Thumbs Up, a student awards banquet later in the year, student organization and student of the month awards and developing resources for a student leadership library.

The Volunteer Resource Center, which will match student volunteer with organizations needing manpower, and the Campus Life lecture series are part of Horne's responsibility, too.

"We're planning for the winter semester to have a supplemental lecture series that will include local celebrities — budget permitting," Horne said.

Horne hopes that her office will provide a communication mechanism for student organizations to learn to cooperate and support each other, as well as helping individual student leaders develop skills.

"It's inevitable that when you're working with students, as you get to know them, you do some counseling," Horne said. "I enjoy the one-to-one contact." Horne's contact with students during her six weeks at Eastern has been positive.

"I've talked to a number of freshmen. I'm very impressed by the students. There's a lot of school spirit. I've seen students take on tremendous tasks and follow through with them," Horne said.

Horne takes an interest in the personal well-being of the student population, too. Her master's thesis involves "Alcohol Abuse Among College Students."

"A survey of University of Kansas students shows that alcohol is the drug of choice among the student population. There wasn't a higher percentage of alcoholics than among other groups, though. It was about 10 percent. But the atmosphere and peer pressure for periodic bouts of drunkenness, binge sort of drinking, is tremendous. There is also a kind of sexual abuse that happens under the influence," Horne said.

PAMELA HORNE

'It's a good learning experience...'

Horne's interest in the topic was sparked by the deaths of two University of Kansas sorority women who were drinking and driving, although the role of alcohol wasn't brought out, followed by the death of a student leader under similar circumstances.

Horne plans to stay in the field and, besides programming, is interested in student housing. Both areas provide an opportunity to meet a wide variety of students and can involve a wide variety of work. Horne's husband, Steve, is an investment analyst for Ford Motor Co. A Belleville resident, Horne is interested in antiques, needlepoint, classical and jazz music.

In the armed forces

The Guinness Book of Records reports that the largest and loudest musical instrument ever built is the Auditorium Organ in Atlantic City, New Jersey. It has two consoles, 1,477 stop controls, and 33,112 pipes. The organ in the Passau Cathedral in Germany is the largest church organ in the world, but it has only 16,000 pipes. The smallest violin that is fully functional and only 5½ inches overall was built by a Mr. T. B. Pollard of Birkenhead, England and is no competition for these mammoth instruments.

Marijuana legalized for use by ill

Marijuana has been a topic of controversy in the State Legislature for several years, with bills to decriminalize the possession and private use of the narcotic cropping up periodically.

At times, the voting has been close, but to date, not one such bill has made its way through both houses of the legislature.

An unusual marijuana bill has appeared this year, and recently passed through the House and Senate by a unanimous vote, according to State Rep. Edward Mahalak (D-38th District).

The bill, which was recently signed into law by Gov. William Milliken, allows patients, suffering from glaucoma or the after effects of cancer treatment, to legally use marijuana.

In addition to legalizing this specific therapeutic use of marijuana, the bill also authorizes the state to become involved in research on the medicinal effect of the drug, Mahalak said.

There has been evidence and testimony that marijuana is helpful to patients being treated for cancer or suffering from glaucoma, an eye disease that can result in blindness. Under the bill, only patients certified by their doctors as requiring marijuana either because their eyesight is threatened or because they are unable to tolerate cancer treatments would be able to obtain it.

The state would issue marijuana only to a limited number of state-approved pharmacies and would also test the controlled substance to insure its purity and dosage.

The House amended the bill to make the program an experimental and temporary one. Under that amendment, the program would be in effect until 1982.

"This will give us an opportunity to review it and determine if it has been helpful and successful," Mahalak said. "If so, it is likely to be continued."

A number of other proposed amendments were defeated, including proposals to allow limited marijuana use for patients in hospitals, allow the state to produce its own marijuana, and include research into the use of the controversial cancer treatment, laetrile, he added.

Mahalak said there has been action on a number of other bills including a House-approved bill to create a pension review council within the legislature's Legislative Council.

The council would serve as an advisory and informational body to the governing boards of public employee retirement systems and the legislature in managing and revising the systems.

In its reports to the governing boards, the legislature and the governor, the council would be able to make recommendations for changes in the existing systems, or on the possible establishment of a new or revised public employee retirement system, Mahalak said, adding that out of these studies and recommendations "could come a more effective pension system for state and local public employees."

The council would consist of seven members appointed by the Legislative Council. At least three of the members would have to have experience in the fields of pensions, pension law and investments. At least one member would be experienced in governmental finance. However, no member of the public employee system could serve on the council, Mahalak emphasized.

The bill has been sent to the Senate for its approval.

Rep. Ford backs loans for Chrysler

Congressman William D. Ford (D-15th District) has joined a group of colleagues in co-sponsoring legislation authorizing direct loans or loan guarantees to Chrysler Corp. to keep the automaker from financial collapse.

Ford said the legislation does not stipulate the amount or any maximum amount for the loans or guarantees.

"Hearings already have been started on the bill, and will be continued next week," Congressman Ford said. "The House Banking Committee will determine the amount after the hearings have concluded."

Chrysler, which lost $286 million in 1978, and will go even deeper into the red this year, is asking that the federal government guarantee loans up to $750 million. The amount has been scaled down from Chrysler's original request for $1.2 billion in loans.

The legislation, offered by Congressman Ford and his colleagues, would establish a 3-member board which would be authorized to allow either direct loans or loan guarantees. The board also would have the power to require the auto firms to make management changes.

"It is important to understand that we would provide only loans, not direct federal aid," Congressman Ford noted. "We are convinced that this nation simply cannot afford to let Chrysler go down the drain. The effect on Michigan, and especially the Detroit area, would be absolutely catastrophic."

Chrysler has blamed its financial problems largely on federal regulations, which require the company to meet new and stringent standards for mileage and safety and environmental protection.

"It is too simplistic to blame all of Chrysler's problems on government regulations or poor management," Congressman Ford said. "The problem did not occur overnight, and it won't be solved overnight."

"I think it is vital that we help Chrysler at this point, but I will not go along with using this crisis as an excuse to throw out all our hard-won environmental, health and energy legislation."

The company is solving part of its cash-flow crisis by selling some of its assets and by deferring some pension payments through an agreement with the United Auto Workers.

"Chrysler officials and UAW leaders are working closely together to preserve the company and retain its several hundred thousand jobs, including more than 82,000 in Michigan alone," Congressman Ford said.

The Congressional Budget office has estimated that the collapse of Chrysler would mean the permanent loss of 200,000 to 300,000 American jobs, would further boost sales of foreign cars in the United States and would increase our foreign trade deficit by more than $2 billion.

They call it 'ARRAS'

Westland Mayor Thomas Taylor (center) went to Washington Friday to talk with Gordon Vickery (right), director of the U.S. Fire Administration, and he came home to Westland with a name for his proposed cable television-home security program. The name is ARRAS, borrowed from the fire administration, which is considering using Westland as a model site for implementation of a fire prevention program. The acronym stands for Automatic Residential Remote Alarm System. Ron Linton (left), who works in Washington as a resource person and lobbyist for Westland and other cities, joined in on the discussions, especially important because the city is hoping to get a $25,000 grant from the fire administration to hire experts to help develop the system.

Officials hope arr ARRAS will draw federal funding

The City of Westland cable television-home security system and the U.S. Fire Administration (USFA) have "found" each other, and Mayor Thomas Taylor hopes it will mean that Westland will be designated a model city for the federal government's fire prevention program.

Taylor was in Washington recently with Gordon Vickery, director of the fire administration, and came home confident that Westland is exactly what the feds have been looking for.

The U.S. Fire Administration for two years has been studying the concept of an electronic fire prevention warning system, with the goal of drastically cutting the number of lives lost and property damaged per year in the country from fires.

The fire administration's report concluded that electronic smoke detection and notification devices for fire prevention could be hooked up to phone lines in homes and businesses. The agency began looking for a city to implement the program to see if it would work.

In the meantime, Taylor was separately developing an elaborate home security plan he hopes to implement in Westland. He announced his proposed plan two months ago. The city would first go into the cable television business itself, and offer the cable service to residents. But it would also utilize the system's two-way capabilities (into and out of the home) to wire homes for security. The electronic system would monitor smoke and heat devices, windows and doors, and include a panic button on a panel. Emergency city personnel would be summoned electronically, if the smoke detector perceived fire, if a window was broken, or a button pushed.

Taylor told the fire administration about his concept, saying that his system would be cheaper than utilizing telephone lines.

The city has gotten permission. . . to use the name.

And since the fire administration has been looking for a model city anyway, Westland volunteered to pioneer the system and offer itself as a model for other cities.

Because of this tie-in with the feds, Taylor and his citizens advisory committee on cable have named the Westland cable system ARRAS. It stands for Automatic Residential Remote Alarm System, and is the name that the U.S. Fire Administration uses for its proposed fire prevention program.

The city has gotten permission from the U.S. agency to use the name.

If Westland is named the model city, that status may very well bring with it grant money. At the moment, the city is applying for a $25,000 grant to hire technical people as the cable system is being planned. The city needs technical expertise of insurance professionals, computer operators and such experts (part of Taylor's plan is to eventually offer city homeowners' insurance to Do sports programs aid or harm youthful players?

Are agency-sponsored youth sport programs doing the young participants more harm than good?

They could be, two University of Michigan physical educators say, if the volunteers who run them are uninformed about children's physical capabilities and emotional needs and if they place undue emphasis on winning.

"Sports competitions have moved from the exclusive domain of the public schools to agencies with state and national affiliations, such as Little League Baseball, Pop Warner Football and Pee Wee Hockey," explained professors Rodney J. Grambeau and Thomas B. Gilliam. "Coaching, officiating and administrative positions are filled by volunteers, thus reducing the amount of control that can be exercised over their qualifications, and their objectives sometimes seem to be at odds with those commonly accepted by professional educators."

It is a matter of scientific record that physical activity is essential to human growth and development, the U-M physical educators said. And team experiences are believed to promote self-confidence, leadership, cooperativeness and other desirable character traits.

"But more research is needed to assess the possible dangers of very strenuous physical training, especially on children under the age of 10. Further, while few would dispute the potential value of sports to a child's psychosocial development, there is no consensus on the time and conditions under which group athletics should be introduced into children's lives."

"Under inadequate adult leaders who place too much emphasis on winning, a child's values may become distorted," they asserted. "Little actual instruction in skills may take place, and early specialization in a single sport may be encouraged."

"The 'victory is all' approach inevitably results in undue pressure and strain on some children and the exclusion of others."

The lack of data and growing concern led to the establishment of the Joint Legislative Study on Youth Sports Programs involving researchers from Michigan State, Wayne State and Northern Michigan universities and U-M.

"The first phase of the study was to measure the extent and frequency of participation of Michigan school children in agency- and school-sponsored competitive sports programs. Circulating some 110,000 questionnaires to public and private school students in 89 districts, the group found that participation was "far greater than anticipated for both male and female students."

"For example, one out of every three boys in the state participated in baseball and one out of every five girls participated in softball," Grambeau and Gilliam reported. Looking at youth between the ages of five and 17, they found participation peaked at about age 13 and was highest in urban areas, followed by suburban and rural.

A second set of more detailed questionnaires sent to a randomly selected group of participants and non-participants and their parents revealed:

—Children were introduced to youth-sports at an early age, some as early as age 3 or 4, and the majority at age 8 or 9.

—Nearly half of the parents indicated that objectives and policies pertaining to the programs with which they were associated did not exist or were not available to them.

—Youth sports programs did little to provide for the health of the athletes who participated. Only 22 percent were required to have physical examinations before participating; only 10 percent alleged mismanagement of funds in the finance department, reasoning that "my" department is a separate entity.

In the council race, with all seven seats up for grabs, the 14 candidates began to sound alike, with more agreement expressed on issues than dissent.

No one could argue incumbent Ray Cantrell's boast that the city lowered its millage from 12.2 in 1978 to 11.8 in 1979.

The city assessor's office confirming his claim, noted that Romulus was the sole municipality in Wayne County, this year, to lower its general millage. Of the 33 cities in the county, Romulus has the second lowest millage, second only to Livonia.

The city millage is 18.54, according to county records.

Cantrell also credited himself, and incumbent council members, for instituting a $1,223,000 program to upgrade its sewer and water system, emphasizing that there would be no increase in taxes.

But, according to the finance department, costs for those capital improvements are to be incurred by the water and sewer fund.

"It's true taxes didn't go up, but the project still costs money. They dipped into the water and sewer fund...as it usually is done," Shea said.

Cantrell boasted also of council's plans for constructing a fifth fire station, explaining that its construction costs would not result in an increase in taxes. According to the grants department, that station's building costs will be defrayed by a federal Community Block grant. But the operation and maintenance costs, will be assumed by the city, according to the finance department.

Most candidates like Edward A. Rush, Fred Block Jr., Barry Baumann and Richard Yeraman agreed there should be a plan to render Detroit Metropolitan Airport more an asset than a nuisance. The airport occupies 16 square miles of the city.

However, few offered solid suggestions for improvement.

Mary L. Carter said: "The thing (the airport) is not going to go away. It was here before many of us. I can remember when it was just a little tower and little planes were flying around."

She said the matter warranted extensive research and study.

Baumann, though, suggested a tax be imposed on hotel lodgers of the airport's facility, similar to charges at other airports, where, in some instances, a 2-percent fee is tacked onto the sales tax.

Rush suggested the city maximize its own utilities surrounding the airport. He said it should also initiate negotiations with Wayne County Road Commission, owners of the airport, for utility improvements.

The intent of that move, Rush said, is to attract more types of industry.

Challengers also found fault with the city's lack of senior citizen housing and recreational facilities.

Baumann, Rush and mayoral candidate Morgan, argued the lack of senior housing was a community disgrace, and that even the housing project scheduled for development is ill-placed.

What's for lunch?

Students in the Van Buren Public Schools will be dining on such entrees as hot turkey sandwiches with gravy and cranberry sauce, spaghetti with meat sauce and pizza in their respective school cafeterias next week.

Next Thursday's menu will be burritos of spaghetti or beef turnovers, buttered peas, fresh fruit rolls and butter and milk.

Next Thursday's menu will be burritos of spaghetti, buttered green beans, applesauce, cookies and milk, while chosing out the week will be a menu of baked chicken or cook's choice, whipped potatoes, buttered corn, cranberry sauce and milk.

In the elementary and junior high schools Monday's menu will be hot dogs on buns, potato rounds, peaches, lemon drink and milk, while Tuesday's lineup will include hamburgers on buns, buttered

Yet, according to grants director Patrick Hogan, the senior housing project, to be built at Shook and Bibbins roads, was actively pursued by council and the administration during the past 18 months.

Hogan said the project is located in an area with nearby facilities, such as a post office, bank, grocery store and pharmacy, contrary claims that the project is situated in an isolated section of town.

The site chosen was based on Michigan Housing Development Authority's requirements that it offer seniors easy access to "existing" stores, according to Hogan.

Recent denial of a rehearing by the Michigan Court of Appeals on a controversial case involving a mobile home park sewer hookup last week prompted the Van Buren Township Board of Trustees to seek help from the state's highest court.

Richard G. James, township attorney, informed the board at its meeting that he had filed for leave of appeal from the appeals court before the Michigan Supreme Court.

He explained that the appeals court had denied both the township's

Huron Schools face deficit of $125,000

The Huron Board of Education has been given a report that the school district will be in deficit for the third straight year.

Richard Jones, auditor, recently told the board the "fund equity" will be $125,075 in the red. Last June and again in September, the voters in the district turned down a request for an additional 3.5 mills.

Jones at the meeting also made several recommendations concerning budgetary procedures.

A tentative budget review for the 1979-80 school year was held Monday at the New Boston Elementary School.

Ken Kubeck, business manager for the district, informed the board about the Morton food plan being introduced in the elementary schools. The plan is designed to keep the cafeteria fund from again having a deficit. Last year, the cafeteria had an excess of expenditures over revenues to the tune of $41,557.

In other board action, contracts were approved for Valerie Vangoss and Joan Otter. Vangoss is replacing a teacher who is on medical leave, and Otter has been added because of an extra large kindergarten class size.

Coaches for the ninth grade football and junior varsity basketball were approved. Jon LaBeau and Robert Kelly will be handling the football duties and Louie Pinter basketball. The Huron Athletic Boosters Club will be fully supporting these two teams financially. The board earlier in the year voted to offer only varsity sports.

The staff roster for community education was approved and a transportation problem was solved.

recreational grants, particularly for urban park improvements and rehabilitation, Hogan's records show otherwise.

According to Hogan, a preliminary application for a grant of that nature has been drafted enabling the city to meet the federal government's January filing deadline.

Hogan also noted there aren't any federal grants available for community construction of a recreation center.

All 20 candidates agreed they would like to see Romulus listed as one of the nation's most desirable cities to reside in, although they agreed to disagree on the means to reach that goal.

Van Buren asks Supreme Court for ruling in sewer hookup case request for an appeal and for reconsideration of its denial for the appeal.

The township board had steadfastly refused to approve a hookup for the proposed mobile home park with the nearby Ypsilanti sewer system on grounds that it would endanger already-polluted Belleville Lake and would violate an agreement made with several downriver communities for sewage disposal.

Their refusal netted them two visits to the Wayne County Jail on orders of the judge in the case, Wayne County Circuit Court judge Charles Kaufman, once for one day and another for eight days.

After one day of incarceration on their second trip to jail, Clerk Doreen Craven and Treasurer Dorothy York signed an agreement to go along with the judge's order. The remaining five members of the board were released a week later after agreeing to abide by whatever decision was made by a higher court, coming after it has exhausted all possible legal avenues.

Compounding the confusion surrounding the case is the fact that the Ypsilanti sewer system informed the township it could not handle additional sewage capacity on its overburdened system. Not until its new sewage disposal plant is completed in a few years could the additional sewage capacity from the township mobile home park be adequately handled, Ypsilanti explained in a letter to Supervisor Pat Cullin.

The township attorney said it could take several weeks, possibly months, before the high court could rule on the matter.

County layoffs: Effects will be widespread

Be it shopping for groceries or sitting in your favorite family restaurant, the odds are great that if you take a look about you, you'll find a Wayne County employee about to face a second, consecutive payless payday.

Last Friday, more than 2,500 county employees were not given due compensation for their labors.

The reason is that the county has gone broke. With an estimated $18.2 deficit budget by the year's end, many county employees fear for their job security, not to mention the possible downfall of Wayne County.

"I'm scared, I don't mind telling you," said Mary Landstrom, public information officer at Wayne County General Hospital.

Mrs. Landstrom said even though she didn't receive her paycheck last Friday, she returned to work Monday in hopes that the county will, somehow, be able to meet its payroll demands sometime in the future.

"I figure, like many others, that if we work we'll eventually be reimbursed for our labors," Mrs. Landstrom said.

The affects of the county's financial troubles were felt by Wayne resident Cheryl Bailey who visited her mother at the county hospital Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Bailey said she was "shocked" to discover so few employees visibly working.

"There was no one at the information desk when I went in, nor when I came out an hour later. I had never been there before and my impression was like it was empty," said Mrs. Bailey.

Mrs. Landstrom said since last year the hospital facility has suffered periodic cutbacks with more than 70 positions eliminated since April alone.

"And we haven't even felt the impacts of a layoff. If we actually are laid off, you'll really see a skeleton crew," Mrs. Landstrom said.

The Westland hospital has been budgeted for 1,450 employee positions, all facing an "indefinite" layoff according to Wayne County Commissioner William Joyner, who represents nine communities in Western Wayne County.

"We've been told that if they decide to lay off employees it will be a massive layoff. All of us will be out, but for the hospital there will be instant recall of only the most super essential people," Mrs. Landstrom said.

She said even with the immediate recall of essential employees, the hospital's patients will be adversely affected, adding that the facility services an inordinate number of out-patient cases each year — approximately 115,000 to 120,000.

It is uncertain, noted both Joyner and Mrs. Landstrom, what the effects will be on the facility's numerous out-patient clinics, such as its diabetic, pregnancy and pediatrics facilities.

Emergency medical care will receive top priority, though, with more than 50,000 patients expected for admittance annually.

Mrs. Landstrom, a 17-year employee of Wayne County, said it was always her belief that to be a government employee meant financial security.

"That's all gone, nothing will ever be the same," she grimaced.

HCMA honors retirees

Three Western Wayne County men, employed by the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority recently were honored at HCMA's annual recognition dinner, held Oct. 13.

George Giblin, 63, former park superintendent at Lower Huron Metropark near Belleville, was among four employees who are retiring this year. Giblin retired on June 8.

He started with the park system in August 1946 and was assigned to Kensington Metropark near Milford until he became park superintendent at Lower Huron on Jan. 1, 1952.

He has more than 32 years of service with the HCMA. He is a resident of Belleville.

Also retiring is Victor G. Stewart, 62, foreman of the cleanup and maintenance-sanitation at Lower Huron. He will retire today (Oct. 31).

Stewart started with the park system in August 1951 and has more than 28 years of service.

He is a resident of Romulus.

And Jack Martz, foreman of the golf course and winter sports facilities at Lower Huron also was honored at the dinner.

Martz, a resident of Westland who joined the park service in April 1954, was presented with a 25-year-pin.

Hefty praise

The harvest bounty, very aptly represented by this 128-pound pumpkin, was all Anthony Stofa of Canton Township needs to deliver his message. Stofa, Sunday School superintendent for the newly formed Canton Free Methodist Fellowship, squeezed the pumpkin and himself into his Pinto station wagon for the journey to where the congregation currently is meeting, Gallimore Elementary School, 8375 Sheldon Road. The pumpkin stands a chunky 23½ inches high and has a midsection that measures 71 inches around. The services are at 9 a.m. and Sunday School at 10 a.m. The fellowship is being sponsored by the Detroit Area Free Methodist Churches. — ANP photo.

Productivity lag could lower living standards

In New York City's Grand Central Terminal, a news service that conveys headlines with a moving electric sign recently announced: "Last month, Americans earned more but produced less."

That short sentence, spelled out in flashing bulbs, summed up the problem which the Joint Economic Committee, a Congressional body, just concluded is as troublesome as inflation itself, and one of inflation's chief causes — even though employee compensation keeps rising, productivity (output per man hour) is falling.

In fact, growth in U.S. productivity is now lagging behind growth rates in all the major trading nations. In the first half of this year, output per man-hour in the non-farm private business sector fell at an annual rate of 5.7 percent, largest decline ever recorded. Unless there's a step-up in U.S. productivity, the average American is likely to see his living standard drastically reduced in the 1980s.

The result, says the Joint Economic Committee, will be a stagnating economy and soaring prices. Their study projected that by 1988 a gallon of gas could cost $5.80, a loaf of bread $2.06, and an average house $151,200.

What should be done to boost U.S. productivity? Economist Hans Sennholz points out that a nation's productivity is primarily determined by the quantity and quality of power tools available per worker, because these tools multiply output.

"Productivity — boosting machinery costs a lot of money," said Dr. Sennholz, "and the amount available depends on how much of their earnings the people save and invest in industry."

"Americans are saving far less of their after-tax income than people in West Germany and Japan. In turn, capital spending in the United States is a much smaller percentage of gross national product than in other industrial countries."

To make more productivity-increasing equipment available to American workers, most economists agree that our government will have to encourage greater savings and investment and stop hampering industry with excessive regulations.

Present government policies that tax interest on savings, that tax capital gains, and that tax all income at progressively higher rates, in the opinion of many experts, restrict America's productivity growth.

Consumers Power bill has new look

Energy bills for Consumers Power Company customers in the utility's metro region, are taking on a new look according to Gene Waggener, the firm's general manager.

"The change comes about," Waggener said, "because the company is replacing its familiar post card bill with a larger envelope-sized bill."

The new billing system is designed to provide more information to each customer about energy usage and to communicate with customers about a variety of energy matters.

According to Waggener, the envelope billing system includes the following features, envelope closure of the bills and a return envelope for privacy, a pre-addressed stub to include in the return envelope with the customer's payment, an expanded message area containing information about the customer's energy account, and the average daily cost of the customer's energy usage.

"In addition," Waggener pointed out, "because the new bill is larger, we will be able to eliminate many of the codes and abbreviations that were necessary on the old bill. This design will make the new bill much easier to read and understand."

Consumers Power estimates that it will cost about four cents more to mail each envelope bill compared to a post card bill. However, the utility says the increased cost is expected to be made up by the efficiencies the new system allows.

The new envelope billing system is being introduced to all of Consumers Power Company's eight service regions during the month of October.

"HOW DO I GIVE COMFORT TO THE TERMINALLY ILL?"

It is usually best to maintain the same closeness you have shared in the past. Your contacts with the person should be of the same type as they were in the past — a phone call, short visit over coffee, a personal note — whichever was your manner of contact before you heard of the illness.

If making a personal call seems too difficult, perhaps a short note indicating "Word has come to me that you are ill. Please be comforted that you are in my thoughts and prayers."

Silence can often be interpreted to mean indifference to one who is ill. A simple note of concern and love makes an opening for a personal call at a time convenient to the sick person. That personal visit will surely provide a comfort to both parties!

And finally, that personal visit should be made just as you ordinarily might make. Don't change your personality or behavior — rather "Be yourself." Bring news or items of interest into the conversation, all in a way to show your care.

Even politicians miss bi-weekly pay checks

By CARRIE YOUNG
ANP Staff Writer

It may come as a surprise to devout cynics, but if the government goes broke, politicians are left out in the cold, too.

"The only difference is that employees are given unemployment compensation. We don't get anything," mused William Joyner, county commissioner for the Canton Township, Westland, Wayne, Belleville and Van Buren Township.

While Joyner emphasized his concern for resolving the problems of financially troubled Wayne County, he also expressed concern for his own personal finances.

"Help I'm broke. I have house payments, but no paycheck," Joyner said. "I gave up my outside source of income for this job. Now, I have nothing."

Last Friday, Wayne County could not come up with enough money to pay its employees, politicians included. Declaring an anticipated $18.2 million deficit by the year's end, the County Board of Auditors said there was a "cash shortfall," precluding issuances of paychecks for all but its CETA (Comprehensive Employment Training Act) employees.

This week it was decided that the county will have to initiate massive layoffs, for all but the most essential services, rather than have employees simply continue to work, at their own option, without pay.

Some employees favor working without pay in hopes of being reimbursed for their payless weeks when, and if, the financial matter is resolved.

This is the third straight year that the county has operated at a deficit.

And unlike previous years, the state has refused to bail the county out by allowing it to borrow against next year's anticipated tax revenues.

The state, during the past three years, has urged, pushed and prodded the County Board of Commissioners to not simply cope with existing problems, but to seek long-term solutions to ensure against a large scale catastrophe.

"They didn't do it, and so I have no sympathy for them. They continued to work at a deficit, although it's illegal to work without a balanced budget," insisted State Rep. Thomas Brown, who represents the Canton Township, Westland and part of Plymouth.

Brown said he has no personal sympathy for Joyner and his fellow commissioners, but instead is angered by their lack of concern to engineer a sound and sensible longterm solution.

"They made their own mess," Brown said.

Joyner retaliated, insisting that the payless paydays are the direct result of the inaction of the State Legislature.

He said the legislature was irresponsible in refusing to come to the county's aid.

"We agreed to the Governor's order that the county be re-organized. We agreed to setting up a charter commission to do it, and we agreed to all that five months ago," Joyner said.

"But the county has been left hanging since then while the state legislators sit in their ivory towers and do nothing. They refuse to pass legislation that would get the re-organization off the ground."

Does sports programming aid or harm its youthful players?

provided a league medical consultant; less than half had adequate training services; 27 percent had no insurance coverage and 75 percent did not have a pre-season conditioning program.

"On the positive side, the practices and games generally were held at times that did not interfere with the participants' sleeping patterns, and involved safe equipment and well-maintained facilities," Grambeau and Gilliam reported.

Finally, the study surveyed 1,227 coaches, 447 officials and 337 administrators on why they became involved in youth sports; their working relationships with the participants; training practices, and their own reasons for involvement and educational needs.

Most reported that they took part due to family involvement and personal enjoyment. A lack of communication was apparent among coaches, officials and administrators, but their interpersonal relationships were generally rated good to excellent, according to the survey.

"Most of the athletes and their parents approved of the way coaches performed their duties, but there were numerous indications that coaches did not allow all contestants to play, stressed winning too much, and frequently argued with players, parents and officials," the U-M educators reported. "Apparently these negative behaviors were accepted as a normal part of athletic competition."

The 3-year study, they say, substantiated the need for a program in Michigan that would provide educational materials, conduct scientific research and offer in-service education for coaches, officials and administrators of agency-sponsored youth sports programs.

In 1978, the Institute for the Study of Youth Sports was established at MSU under the direction of Prof. Vern D. Seefeldt who coordinated the 4-university Joint Legislative Study.

The institute sponsored softball and baseball clinics for coaches and officials in six parts of the state last spring, and more are now under way in such areas as touch football, ice hockey, soccer and wrestling.

"While the clinics offer tips on expert throwing, kicking and other game techniques, they stress attention to the individual child's physical, psychological and social development rather than strategies for victory. It is hoped," Grambeau and Gilliam added, "that these philosophies also are passed on to the parents who are often just as likely to place heavy pressures on their youngster to win."

"The main objective of youth sports is to have fun," they concluded, "and the second is to learn skills that will be of lasting benefit. Winning or losing should be of incidental, not overriding importance."

VAN BUREN BOARD MINUTES

MINUTES OF THE REGULAR BOARD MEETING, VAN BUREN TOWNSHIP, October 23, 1979. 46425 Tyler Rd., Belleville, Mi. 48111.

Meeting called to order by Supervisor Cullin at 7:30 p.m. Pledge of Allegiance. Roll Call: Present; Supervisor Cullin, Clerk Craven, Treasurer York, Trustees: Maton, Domen, Hall, and Welty. Also present; Attorney James, Engineers Levine & Wilhelm, Secretary Dudick and approximately 15 interested citizens.

Motion Hall, support Maton, to approve the minutes of the Regular Board Meeting of October 9, 1979 as presented. CARRIED.

Motion Domen, support Welty, to approve the minutes of the Study Meeting of October 15, 1979 as presented. CARRIED.

Audience Portion of Agenda: Mr. Roy Adkins of 6185 Denton Road asked the Board for assistance in dealing with the Wayne County Drain Commission regarding a plugged drain causing flooding on his property. He has been down to the Drain Commission office and no one will help him. The process, as he was told, would take at least three years before all the public hearings and notifications were completed and in the meantime, his basement floods everytime it rains.

Supervisor Cullin explained to Mr. Adkins the Townships problems in the past with the Drain Commission and told him that the Township does not have jurisdiction nor money to take care of drains. The Township has no more power to deal with this problem than does a private individual. She indicated that someone from the Township would call the Drain Commission on behalf of Mr. Adkins, but does not expect any immediate positive results.

Hearing no other requests to speak, the audience portion of the meeting was closed.

A letter from SEMCOG was read by Clerk Craven. Clerk Craven indicated that there was some confusion with this piece of correspondence as the attachment to it from Van Buren Township is a resolution in opposition to the expansion of runway 23L and the letter deals with an Instrument Landing System for runway 23L and also states that "favorable comments have been received" from Van Buren Township.

Motion Domen, support Welty, to table the SEMCOG letter for clarification from Parkins, Rogers, the Township Planning Consultants. CARRIED.

Correspondence from Berlin Township was read regarding the designation of 'Trick or Treat' night for Halloween as permanently being on the 31st of October.

The consensus of the Board was that it was too late now to make a resolution for such a designation as the newspapers would not have time to inform the public.

Motion Maton, support Craven, to table this item until September of 1980 and then bring it back for consideration. CARRIED.

A letter of resignation from the Water and Sewer Commission from George Heifner was read by Clerk Craven.

Motion Maton, support York, to accept the letter of resignation and to send a letter of appreciation to Mr. Heifner for his services. CARRIED.

Supervisor Cullin stated that if anyone were interested in serving on the Sewer and Water Commission they should contact her office before the next Board Meeting and they would be considered, along with the applicants already on file, by the Board.

Attorney James reported on the 1973 Consolidation Petition currently coming before the Boundary Commission. The referendum for Charter will not in itself block the consideration of the Commission on the Consolidation Petition. All the factors involved will be considered, such as, the age of the petition, the filing for charter, and other things that are statutorily bound to consider. The possibility exists that both the charter referendum and a consolidation referendum could be on the ballot together. No date has been set to Attorney James' knowledge, at this time for the hearings.

Trustee Domen suggested that as soon as a date is known for the hearings, a Special Meeting of the Board should be held to receive public input and to determine the posture of the Board representative to the hearings.

Motion Hall, support York, to have the Attorney ascertain the date of the hearing of the State Boundary Commission regarding Consolidation of Van Buren Township and the City of Belleville and if necessary schedule a Special Meeting of the Board to discuss and receive public input. CARRIED.

The Bid Opening was held for the sale of 1. Single Axle Dual Wheel House Trailer, 2. 1 1/2 h.p. Power Wash, 3. 1975 3/4 Ton Chevy Cab & Chassis, and 4. 1974 1/2 Ton Ford Pick Up.

Item No. 1 House Trailer, bids received as follows: Mike Huziak — $25.00, John R. Mason — $30.00, Robert Albright — $52.52, Donald Bostic — $60.00, and Earl H. Shinn — $100.00.

Motion Domen, support Hall, to sell the House Trailer to the highest bidder, Earl H. Shinn for $100.00. CARRIED.

Item No. 2 Power Wash, bids received as follows: Robert B. Albright — $16.52, Larry Boelter — $130.00.

Motion Hall, support Welty, to sell the Power Wash to the highest bidder, Larry Boelter for $130.00. CARRIED.

Item No. 3 '75 Chevy Cab & Chassis, bids received as follows: Albin A. Udovich — $125.00, Robert B. Albright — $277.52, Ed Schroeder — $125.00 and Larry Boelter — $380.00.

Motion Maton, support York, to sell the '75 Chevy Cab & Chassis to the highest bidder, Larry Boelter for $380.00. CARRIED.

Item No. 4 '74 Ford Pick Up, bids received as follows: Albin A. Udovich — $50.00, Ed Schroeder — $65.00, Larry Boelter — $230.00, and Robert B. Albright — $277.52.

Motion Welty, support Hall, to sell the '74 Ford Pick Up to the highest bidder, Robert B. Albright for $277.52. CARRIED.

Notification of the Michigan Township Associations Educational Convention and Annual Meeting to be held January 9, 10 and 11 at the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn, Michigan was read by Supervisor Cullin.

Motion Domen, support Welty, to approve the attendance of Board Members and Department Heads (with approval from an elected official) at the M.T.A. Educational Convention and Annual Meeting to be held at the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn, Michigan on January 9, 10, and 11, 1980. CARRIED.

Motion Hall, support York, to approve the use of the Old Township Hall Basement for a Halloween Haunted House by the Jaycees upon receipt of a hold-harmless agreement and proof of insurance form from the Jaycees. CARRIED.

Motion York, support Craven, to accept the resignation of Mr. Shirley Fogg from the Rehabilitation Review Board. CARRIED.

Motion Welty, support Hall, to appoint Sandy Magdowski to fill the vacancy on the Rehabilitation Review Board. CARRIED.

John Cottrill, Water Department Head, explained to the Board that his department has been having a problem with homeowners taking out a homeowners permit and then getting a contractor to do the work. He requested approval from the Board for a written Homeowner's Agreement that would state in writing the liability incurred by the homeowner for the work being done by the contractor for any damages, if the homeowner gets the permit.

The Township licenses Contractors after those Contractors have supplied proof of State licensing, and adequate insurance coverage for damages. In the instance of these contractors, they come into the Water Department and get the permit in their own name. It is the unlicensed contractors being hired by homeowners that creates the problem.

Motion Maton, support York, to adopt the use of the written Homeowner's Agreement in regard to the Homeowners Permits for water and sewer hook-ups as presented. CARRIED.

Discussion was held with the Board and Mr. Cottrill regarding the winterizing of fire hydrants that are privately owned. A contract was presented for consideration indicating the services that would be performed for a fee. Supervisor Cullin felt there might be some liability to the Township if problems arose with the hydrants, resulting in excess fire damage, after we had winterized them.

Motion Hall, support York, to table the Contract for Winterizing Fire Hydrants for further research by the Township Attorney. CARRIED.

Motion Domen, support Craven, to approve the Contract between Van Buren Township and The Trade Union Leadership Council for the French Landing Dam Project. CARRIED.

Motion Hall, support Welty, to approve the amendment to administrative guidelines for the Housing Rehabilitation Program. CARRIED.

Motion Welty, support Maton, to approve the recommendation of the Supervisor to appoint Loretta Speaks as a member of the Water and Sewer Commission to replace Donna Hall. CARRIED.

Motion York, support Maton, to reappoint Donna Clark and Marvin Wenzel to the Recreation Commission for 3 year terms. CARRIED.

Motion Welty, support Hall, to approve the reappointment of Tom Kelly for a 6 year term to the Economic Development Corporation. CARRIED.

Attorney James reported that all the briefs have been filed with the Michigan Supreme Court regarding the El'Chonen Case and they are now in the process of awaiting word from the court.

Engineer Wilhelm submitted a report on a meeting before the Detroit Common Council regarding the Industrial Surveillance Pollution Program. No final decisions have been made but final action is expected within two weeks. Mr. Wilhelm will give the report on the action at that time.

Motion Domen, support Maton, to approve the Voucher Lists for the Water and Sewer Fund and the General Fund as presented. CARRIED.

Supervisor Cullin announced that so far, the extent of the comments received on the draw-down of the lake have involved the 'no boats' regulation. All the Board agreed that to distinguish at this late date between the types of boats that should be allowed (rowboats vs. motorboats) would serve no useful purpose and be an added expense. (Printing and mailing costs.)

Trustee Donna Hall reminded everyone that this Saturday, October 27th, is the date of the Retirement Party for Sgt. Joe Rafalski and she hoped everyone would attend. Tickets are still available from Board Members.

Motion Hall, support Craven, to adjourn.

Meeting adjourned at 9:00 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,
Doreen Craven, Clerk

- Treasurer Russell explained to the residents that if each homeowner would agree to pay $2.00 a month for Rubbish Pick-up, we could then re-allocate the Revenue Sharing Funds that are now being used to pay for Rubbish Pick-up to pay for a full-time Police Department.
- After a lengthy discussion, the residents requested they be allowed to vote on the matter. They were informed for it to be put on a ballot, they must have signed petitions.

Best time is now to start own business, CPAs say

Most of us harbor at least occasional ambitions for starting our own business. Thousands try and fail. Other thousands try and succeed. It has been estimated that nearly a million jobs a year are added to the economy by small business.

But how do you decide whether you have what it takes, especially in times like these, when inflation and recession make simultaneous inroads?

The national economy doesn't make all that much difference for the small enterprise, according to the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants. If there is a market for your output you can succeed regardless of what is happening nationwide.

The fact is inflation and recession offer unusual opportunities—for unusual individuals. First of all, a person thinking about starting his own business is likely to be contemplating a service company, rather than one that will manufacture a product. This improves the chances of success during a depressed economic period; most service companies came through the 1973-1975 recession unscathed.

Presently, all sorts of companies get additional usage out of old products that are booming, including:

—Auctioneering firms are busier than ever finding buyers for objects that once would have been considered ready for the junkpile.

—The market for used furniture, formerly confined almost exclusively to antiques, now takes in virtually any household item that is serviceable, or can be made so, especially if the work can be done by the owners, themselves.

—Instruction in do-it-yourself arts and crafts and the supplying of tools and materials used by the do-it-yourselfers are both prospering.

—Companies that recycle building materials, lumber, bricks, steel beams, even bathtubs, can't keep up with demand.

—And buildings, themselves, are being recycled. Those who do this work at first were limited chiefly to fixing up homes for families priced out of the new-house market, but now they are doing a lot of renovating of commercial and industrial buildings.

As for what it takes to succeed with a new, small business, the Michigan CPAs cite three essentials: a genuine need for your product or service, your ability to deliver at a competitive price, and capital sufficient to start you off and keep you going until the business is established.

And it's that third element, they emphasize, that can give you a clue to your chances for success.

"If you can raise the capital," said a CPA spokesman, "chances are your hopes are realistic, because the people who extend venture capital to new business firms are able to reach pretty sound conclusions as to what will go and what will not."

"For the most part, those conclusions are likely to be based on you, their appraisal of your talents and experience, your track record."

Suppliers of venture capital, the CPA went on, are most interested in an applicant's business sense as distinguished from his skill as an artisan or as a salesman.

"The fact that you are the world's best glassblower or pizza baker is not enough to justify your starting business," he said.

"You have to be able to gauge your potential market, size up the right location and produce realistic estimates of what your costs will be and consequently what you will live to charge."

"To raise capital by borrowing all the above information must be submitted in writing, clearly and logically presented so the lender can be sure you know what you are talking about."

Even if you don't have to brow capital to get started, it is good idea, the CPAs advise, to put your ideas down on paper, then seek the reactions of knowledgeable experienced people you have confidence in.

"If you cannot see clearly how you are going to win out over competition," said the CPA spokesman, "do yourself a favor and give up the idea right now."

"If you are quite sure you can do better than the opposition, go ahead and give it a try without duconcern about the national economy," he said.

Griffith named to 'Scholar'

The 1978-79 volume of "The Student Scholar" at Ohio Wesleyan University in Delaware, Ohio, includes a paper, written by Anne Griffith, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Griffith of Merel Court, Belleville.

Griffith is a senior, majoring in zoology. The paper, entitled "Field Observations on the Behavior of the White-Breasted Nuthatch", was submitted by the university's zoology department.

"The Student Scholar" is published by the university to publicly commend and encourage superior achievement among Ohio Wesleyan students. The selections for inclusion are based on recommendations of supervising professors.

Also on the college scene: Performing with the Western Michigan University Symphony Orchestra at its opening concert Oct.

The concert included a performance of the Concerto for Tuba and Orchestra by Vaughn Williams and Mendelssohn's Reformation Symphony No. 5 in D Major.

Donna White of Willis Road, Belleville, was among several students named to the Dean's List at Michigan Technical Institute in Ann Arbor, for the 1979 summer term, which ended Sept. 21.

Ms. White received her certificate in accounting from the institute.

To be named to the Dean's list she had to have a 3.25 grade point average or better for the term. Ms. White was named to the Dean's List every term while at the institute.

Juan Verde, the son of Mrs. Janet Verde of Angola Street, Belleville, and Robert Lambert, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Lambert of Westvale, Romulus, recently appeared in the Eastern Michigan University Players' production of "The Boys from Syracuse".

Verde, a sophomore majoring in dramatic arts, has appeared in several lab mime shows and mainstage productions at Eastern. In "The Boys from Syracuse" he played the corporal.

Lambert, played the role of Dromio, a slave whose comic antics and love of women cause him to be mistaken for his twin brother.

Joyner continued his argument that the State Legislature allowed "the embarrassing situation" to occur and insisting state officials are unable to come to grips with societal issues, infuriating Rep. Brown.

"Since when has Mr. Joyner become an authority on state government," Brown said.

Brown labeled Joyner's argument against the state as "subterfuge" in an effort to evade and conceal the problem at hand. The actual blame for the county's dire financial straits, is to rest with those directly governing that level of government, according to Brown, "namely your county board of commissioners."

Since 1968 county commissioners have created an enormous bureaucracy, even creating jobs and departments where they knew there wasn't a need," he added.

"Therein lies the problem. And the blame should rest solely on the commissioners' shoulders," Brown insisted.

As it stands today, the state is not indebted to the county, except for an approximate $11 million in payment for the state's purchase of the Walter Ruetheer Long-term Care Facility.

"But actually it hasn't even been bought yet. The county has not paid on its bonds, and it has to have a clear title to sell us something, just like in any matter," Brown said.

Brown added that even if the state paid the county money for the hospital facility, that money could not necessarily be spent for general operation purposes.

Joyner, voted in the minority when the county established its 1979 budget, terming it a "mockery" by its Board of Auditors. "I knew it wasn't a balanced budget then, but no one listened," said Joyner.

Endorsements

In keeping with past practice, The Romulus Roman provides its reader's with a list of candidates seeking office, as well as a list of those candidates this newspaper feels are best able to represent the citizens of Romulus.

For Mayor

The two candidates seeking the office of mayor are both local men, heavily involved in their community.

Incumbent Mayor William Oakley, has campaigned for re-election on the basis of his record of bringing stability to Romulus.

Challenger Mel Morgan, a local businessman, is seeking the mayor's job because he feels that the city has not fully exploited its potential.

In the race for mayor, the Roman endorses William Oakley.

Oakley has indeed brought a measure of stability to a community previously racked with internal, and external, bickering and political fighting. We believe that Oakley has earned a second term.

For City Treasurer

Incumbent Helen Gallien, finishing her first term as Treasurer, is being challenged by city councilman Beverly McAnally for the post.

Mrs. Gallien has waged a campaign on the basis of her record with the city for almost 17 years. She contends that the community has improved its accounting functions under her leadership and experience.

Challenger Beverly McAnally, Councilman for the past 7 years, has been an outspoken critic of several city administrations. She has expressed considerable doubt over the present handling of the city's accounting procedures and has recently completed courses in accounting.

The Roman endorses Beverly McAnally.

We feel that for too long the city has been lax in its accounting procedures. Mrs. Gallien, with many years of involvement in the city's financial affairs, has apparently done little to correct any questionable accounting procedures identified by city accountants for the past several years.

Mrs. McAnally, while lacking experience, certainly has demonstrated a grasp of the Treasurer's operation. In addition, we believe that Mrs. McAnally will approach the job with a new point of view. She has been a hard worker in the past and we would expect that she will be, again, in the future.

For City Clerk

The race for City Clerk pits incumbent Leonard Folmar against Jerry Kubiak.

Folmar, the silver tongued articulate spokesman for his department, has held the clerk's job since Romulus was incorporated. While Folmar has made mistakes, it is difficult to find anyone who hasn't. Few residents have been heard expressing criticism of his operation.

Kubiak, former Director of Public Safety for the city, is a bright ambitious man who has served his community well. An independent man who calls them the way he sees them, Kubiak has much to offer.

The Roman endorses Leonard Folmar.

While we believe that either candidate could make a contribution to the community, we see no reason to deny Folmar his next term.

For City Council

Fourteen candidates are vying for 7 seats on the city council.

The Roman endorses:

BANKS, BLOCK, CANTRELL, CARTER, RUSH, DICK and AVERY.

We believe the key to a progressive developing community is dynamic people with energy. Many of our choices are not new to the political arena, while others are seeking election for the first time. But experience alone is not the only good criterion for elective office. Romulus needs leaders of vision to move the community into the 1980s.

As usual, we must point out that our opinions are ours alone. We did not attempt to gaze into a crystal ball. Rather we look, listen, and question the candidates and come to our conclusions. You of course, should do the same.

From your lawmakers

Legislative up-date

By ROBERT LAW
State Representative
36th District

I sponsored a bill in the Michigan House that would substantially reduce the taxes paid by business firms throughout the state.

Under the proposed measure (H.B. 5051), payments to the state and federal unemployment compensation fund and payments for workers' disability insurance would no longer be considered in calculating the single business tax base.

The single business tax has been harshly criticized as contributing to an anti-business climate in Michigan. If this proposal is adopted, both capital and labor intensive firms would see their taxes reduced.

The beauty of this proposal is that it helps business, but in no way affects the worker's and unemployment compensation systems.

According to statistics from the Department of Management and Budget, last year workers' and unemployment compensation accounted for three percent of the single business tax base, or about $1.3 billion of the tax base.

Translated, those figures mean that Michigan businesses would save roughly $31 million if we eliminate workers and unemployment compensation premium payments from the calculation of the single business tax.

That is a substantial savings, and the kind of savings that could spur badly needed economic growth in these inflationary times.

Furthermore, by exempting this compensation from the calculation we would be eliminating what is, in a sense, a tax on a tax.

The bill has been referred to the House Committee on Taxation for consideration.

I strongly urge businesses who support this concept to write to the Chairman of the Committee, State Representative George Montgomery, to request a hearing on the bill.

Address letters to Representative Montgomery, State Capitol, Lansing, MI 48909.

MARIJUANA

The House last week unanimously passed legislation that will allow cancer and glaucoma patients to use marijuana to help reduce their suffering.

Before passing the Senate bill, however, the House tacked on a provision mandating that the program be ended in 1982. The Senate must concur with that amendment before sending the bill to Governor Milliken for his signature. The Governor is expected to sign the bill into law in the near future.

The House Public Health Committee heard some touching testimony two weeks ago by a 21-year-old cancer patient who said she had just two years to live. The daughter of clergyman, she said her brothers and sisters had illegally obtained the drug for her so that her suffering could be relieved. That testimony probably was the reason that the bill passed unanimously.

The bill will take away some of the tremendous pain that cancer patients are subjected to in the last years of their life. No one likes to see a person suffer and this bill will help the families of these patients as well as the patients themselves.

The bill allows the use of marijuana to be strictly controlled by the State and other health officials. The patient's doctor and the state Public Health Department would both have to agree that the patient would be better off with marijuana as a pain-killer. Only state-designated drug stores would carry the drug.

I am surprised that legislation of this type passed the House so easily, but I think many eyes were opened to the suffering of chemotherapy patients and persons suffering from glaucoma during House debate on the bill. Any means that will allow these people to function with less pain should be utilized.

SPEEDING

It looks like those who drive cars in excess of the 55 mile per hour (mph) speed limit on Michigan freeways will be able to do so without the threat of penalty points.

In a move that is a definite backward step towards making our highways safer, the Michigan House of Representatives defeated a bill that would have assessed penalty points against a driver's record for breaking the 55 mph speed limit.

The defeat came on a 48-54 roll call vote.

You will recall that when our nation faced its first post-World War II gasoline shortages in 1974, the federal government decreed that to conserve fuel supplies the states should lower speed limits to 55 mph.

Michigan was one of the last states to take that action five years ago and then only under the threat of a cut-off of federal road building monies.

However, when the Legislature did finally lower the speed limit to 55, it failed to give teeth to the law by not providing penalty points for those who violated the law between 55 and the old freeway speed limit, 70 mph.

Since then there have been various, unsuccessful attempts to toughen the 55 mph. There is ample evidence both in our own state and across the nation that the 55 mph law not only conserves gasoline supplies but it saves lives as well.

Editor's log

'You don't deserve us!'

By DENNIS FASSETT
Managing Editor

"Wanted: Bright intelligent person with experience in: Federal Block Grant Funds, Revenue Bonds, Labor Negotiations, Contract Administration, Budget Analysis, Street Paving, Psychology, Ordinance Law, Personnel, Building Codes, Fire Prevention, Police Protection, Political Science, Purchasing, Selling, and Real Estate."

"The successful candidate must be willing to work long hours up to 24 hours a day. Would prefer attractive person with a Master's degree in English who has successfully demonstrated an ability to communicate."

"While no educational minimums have been established, the successful candidate will be expected to deal effectively with doctors, lawyers, auto mechanics, chairmen of the board, corporate presidents, elected officials representing local, state, and federal government, con-men of high persuasion, and little old ladies of no persuasion."

"Salary: $300 per month."

"P.S. The successful candidate will be required to spend between $1,000 and $10,000 every two years to keep the job."

The above job requirements seem to eliminate everyone from consideration, even if you could find someone who would want a temporary job that pays less than it will cost.

What is that job?

City Councilman or Township Trustee.

It is very easy for most of us to sit back and criticize our locally elected officials, and certainly that is our prerogative, but perhaps before we criticize, maybe we should take a long look at what we have asked them to do for us.

An analysis of an elected official's job would reveal that the person elected to represent, often finds that the job consists primarily of public relations. Not that the candidates for office would prefer it that way. Indeed, most elected officials would dearly love to devote all of their time to the pressing issues of the day.

But these same people who swore to resolve all their community's problems, find themselves, once elected, unable to find the opportunity to resolve those problems.

Why?

The answer is often surprising.

The people that have elected, will not allow the elected, time to fulfill their promises.

The bright ambitious people who cared enough about their town to volunteer thousands of hours of their spare time, soon find that a community cares little and remembers not at all the community's problems. Rather, the test of an official's job performance soon becomes rooted in the number of benefit parties attended, how frequently the officials attend meetings of the local service clubs, how well the official presents himself, and how ably the person communicates.

That anyone would want such a job is a surprise. That so many volunteer, is amazing.

Perhaps then, the real test of a community should not rest on its ability to attract industry, so much as its ability to attract the active involvement of its citizens. And a person cannot get more involved than to seek public office. Especially part-time public office.

So, for all of the candidates who have offered themselves to the community, we should say "Thanks."

We may disagree. We may have different political preferences. But you are the one involved.

While we sit comfortably reading our local newspaper and criticizing your efforts, you are involved.

Probably, we don't deserve you. Most certainly, you don't deserve us.

Fuel legislation lauded by state

Editor:

With the passage of HB 4726 the Michigan Legislature is to be commended for taking the first step to ensure that thousands of senior citizens won't be placed in the untenable position of choosing between food and fuel.

The bill establishes a home heating assistance program for persons with low incomes for this year, 1980 and 1981.

A similar program last year helped almost 350,000 households, two-thirds of which were headed by senior citizens, absorb some of the winter's high home heating costs.

We urge the Legislature to move quickly to provide funding for this program by passing HB 4730.

House Bill 4730 proposes to amend the Severance Tax Act to increase the tax rate from two to six percent. The revenues from this increased tax would fund the Home Heating Assistance Program, as well as a State Weatherization Program and an Energy Conservation Fund.

We do believe, however, that a six percent increase is inadequate to fund all these programs and urge the Legislature to increase the tax to ten percent, as originally proposed.

The home heating season is here now. Failure to act on HB 4730 could mean no heat or worse for thousands of the State's older citizens.

Question of the week:

A bill has been introduced in the Michigan Legislature by Senator R. Robert Geake (R-Northville) that would permit suspending a person's drivers license for failure to pay his parking fines.

Senate Bill 687 was introduced at the request of City officials who expressed their concerns about people who ignore their parking violations and fail to appear at their hearings or pay their fines. The measure would provide an automatic default judgment against the person and his driver's license would be suspended until an appearance in court was made and all matters pertaining to his violations were resolved.

What do you think about this proposal? Your comments are important! Senator Geake would like to hear from you. Please call him November 3, between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. He will personally take your call and discuss this matter with you. The phone number is: 422-0750.

Glenn, Wayne clash in season finale

9th meeting between natural rivals 'is a toss-up'

For the past five years Westland John Glenn has beaten Wayne Memorial on the gridiron.

And the victories have enabled the Westlanders to display the classic trophy offered by the Wayne Jaycees to the winner of the annual confrontation.

Friday night, the two natural rivals go at it again, this time at Wayne Memorial, and some 5,000 fans are expected to jam the stadium to witness the battle between two evenly matched teams.

Glenn is coming off of a heart-breaking 20-17 loss to Livonia Stevenson, the reigning Inter-Lake Conference champs; Wayne turned back Wyandotte 19-0 in the concluding game of the Great Lakes 8 Conference season.

Wayne is 5-3 on the year; Glenn carried a 3-5 record into Friday night (8 p.m. kickoff) finale.

"Wayne has an excellent football team," said Glenn's Chuck Gordon. "They have played well defensively all year long — their record of four shutouts and giving up two points in another game is witness to that fact."

"Offensively, they have two great running backs in Rogers (Rick) and Shumpert (Don), so that causes special problems for the defense," Coach Gordon continued. "I feel it's going to be one heck of a game again."

Wayne Memorial Coach Floyd Carter agreed.

"I don't think that Glenn's record is indicative of the kind of football they have been playing," Carter said. "They had Stevenson on the ropes and they have lost to teams like Edsel Ford (8-0), Redford Union (7-1), so you can see they have run up against some tough ones."

"And, needless to say, there is this natural, healthy rivalry between the two schools. That adds up to an exciting game anyway you look at it," Carter added.

Wayne erupted for two fourth quarter touchdowns to bury the Bruins 19-0 in their final conference game, lifting the Zebras to a 4-3 final league mark.

Wayne got on the scoreboard on a five-yard pass from quarterback Rick Covault to Mike Blair. That touchdown was set up by a fumble recovery but Mike Wilson who pounced on the ball at the Bruins' 10. Bruce Rize forced the turnover on the second play of Wyandotte's first series of plays after the kickoff.

The Zebras had another excellent shot at a TD in that first quarter when Wilson again recovered a Bruin fumble but didn't capitalize.

Bench the first half, Wayne's two stellar running backs Rick Rogers and Don Shumpert went to work against the Bruins the last half. Shumpert picked up 115 yards and a touchdown in the last two periods while Rogers amassed 63 yards during that span.

Wayne marched 80-yards in seven plays thanks to Shumpert and Rogers, Shumpert, on the seventh play of the series, scored from the three.

Hopes dim for Belleville victory in '79

The Sports Meridian

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

When Mike Colletta took over the job this year as Belleville High's head football coach he knew that the Tigers had a bad habit of losing.

And that time was needed to restore confidence and a winning program.

But losing can be exasperating — downright annoying to a person who wants to win so badly. So, last Friday, when his team came within inches of beating Livonia Bentley, (Belleville lost 15-12), he was ready to accept all the blame for the loss.

"I just wish I could have some of those calls back," he moaned over the telephone. "Honest, I feel we should have won this one, and I'm not belittling Bentley or anything. But I feel that I lost it with a couple of calls."

Colletta pointed out that he was battling with himself on a couple of decisions that he made during that game, decisions he felt that negatively influenced the outcome.

Colletta didn't elaborate, but it was obvious that it was bothering him.

And, you know when a person lives and dies for his team, you also know that the fortunes of that team will soon be turned around.

With Ypsilanti next, Belleville won't be winning a game for their new coach this year.

But, a year from now, watch out for Colletta and the Tigers.

Last week we put down on paper some of the ordeals of Dave Schuele and Canton High's football team. Schuele also has failed to win in 1979 and with Dearborn next it appears that the Chiefs will close out the 70's with a dismal 0-9 record.

Schuele's season has been so absurd but, wait, let him tell you what happened:

"My wife and I went up to Ann Arbor to see the Michigan and Indiana game and with little more than three minutes left I felt that Michigan had it all sewed up, so we left. So what happens. As we reach the parking lot I hear a great shout and, of course, I quickly turn on the radio. Indiana has scored and the game is all tied up. A few minutes later and another great shout ... Michigan has scored on the last play.

"Michigan wins 27-21 and it's the first time in nearly a century that they've won on a last play and I'm there ... and yet I'm not there."

"That's the kind of year I've having," moaned Schuele. When you're down, the saying goes, you're down.

Finally it seems that we've been neglecting a national champ and a Westlander reader wants to know why. Here's his letter and we hope that we can resolve his problem in the near future.

Dear Mr. Mooradian,
Residents of Westland, where are you?

It's time to come forward, to stand up and be counted among the supporters of the Westland Sparks Wheelchair Basketball team. This team is part of our city now (formerly the Detroit Sparks) and needs our support.

On Saturday, October 13th, they played their opening game of the 1979-80 season at the Melvin G. Bailey Recreation Center. It was very discouraging to see the few spectators in attendance. This team plays a great game of basketball and deserves to have us behind them 100 percent.

Where else can you enjoy two hours of entertainment for the $1.25 price of admission. Come on, Westland, let's go out and support the Westland Sparks and let them know we are proud to have them associated with our City.

While reading the Westland Eagle the following Thursday, (Oct. 18) I failed to see one line of print about the game or even any announcement of the game for the following week-end, which happened to be the All-Star game between the Sparks and the Lake Erie Conference All Stars.

Don't you agree that the 1979 national champions deserve a better break than that?

Get with it, Sports Department!

Getting the needed blocking, Livonia Churchill's Bill Keller (at right) cuts into Livonia Franklin territory during the duel between the two cross-town rivals.

Keller managed to lead the defending Western Six Conference champs to their seventh triumph in eight starts, 14-7. Story is on Page 3.

Romulus' streak hits 3; Can they beat Riverview

Romulus' modest football winning streak has reached three, and if Coach Don Foley's Eagles can stop Riverview Friday night, they will have in their hands one of the longest victory strings in the school's recent history.

"You always have to respect Riverview teams," Foley said after his team buried Dearborn Heights Annapolis 21-0 last Friday to boost their over-all record to 3-5. "They play such highly-regarded schools such as Fordson, Monroe, Wayne and Lincoln Park.

"We have a tough job ahead of us," Foley added.

Romulus scored in every quarter except the third in dominating their visitors from Dearborn Heights. Vince Carter crossed the Annapolis goal line from the four to climax a 50-yard, nine-play drive with four minutes left in the initial quarter to give the Eagles the lead for good.

Then, Marty Knight kicked his first of three point-after.

Shawn Green collected his first of two two-yard touchdown runs in the second quarter. That initial TD came after Mark Inch had blocked an Annapolis punt and Mark Schick recovered for the Eagles on the Cougar three-yard line. The sequence was led up to the TO included a Carter fumble at the Annapolis two.

Green, who scored his second touchdown in the fourth quarter, piled up 75 yards in 24 rushes.

Carter stopped a serious Annapolis threat late in the game when he picked off a pass at the Eagle 38-yard line to end Annapolis' last drive.

"I feel we totally dominated this game," Foley said. "Our defense played a superlative game. Annapolis spent most of the game inside their own 30-yard line. And we had several other good scoring opportunities that mistakes erased."

Carter, who picked off two Annapolis passes, joined cornerbacks Duane Parker, Richard Holt and Marcus Bolden for most of the defensive praise. Inch put pressure on Annapolis quarterback Rich McGuire who was sacked five times by the Eagle defenders.

"I feel our kids are now enjoying what they are doing out there and that makes a great deal of difference," Foley said.

After spotting the Bulldogs 15 points, Belleville got on the board in the second quarter when quarterback Mike Sampson drove 93 yards in 14 plays with running back Barry Riddick taking it in from the six. Riddick and Rick Winekoff ground out most of the yardage.

Belleville elected to go for the two-point conversion and Keith Gates was stopped short of the goal line.

Riddick again scored after a three-play, 47-yard drive in the third quarter. Winekoff set up the TD with a 37-yard run to the Bentley 10.

Sampson flipped a pass to Greg Brinkerhoff in hopes of realizing the two-point conversion, but the aerial was off target.

Bentley's TD came in the first quarter and the initial score was aided by a pass interference call. Quarterback Dave Cabrera tallied from the one to give the visitors the edge and, after an exchange of punts, the Bulldogs got on the scoreboard again thanks to a seven-yard pass from Cabrera to Bob Schmitt.

Belleville had at least two other scoring opportunities. The Tigers drove from their own 45 to the Bulldog seven when time ran out and in the third quarter a drive fizzled at the 19.

Winekoff ended his prep grid career with one of his finest nights as a ballcarrier. He rushed for 154 yards in 21 carries. Riddick picked up 83 yards in 16 tries plus the two TDs.

"It was their final home appearances and both Riddick and Winekoff turned in great individual performances. In fact, after the game some one pointed out that Riddick's second quarter touchdown was on sheer determination.

Doug Tolson, Wayne Memorial's remarkable distance runner, hurdled one of the major obstacles Saturday in his way to the successful defense of his Class A state cross country title.

Tolson set a course record of 14:47 in retaining his regional title at Cass Benton Park and will be the one to beat at the state championships which will be held this Saturday in Howell.

"Doug ran a smart race," said Wayne Coach Ernie Righetti whose Zebras finished with 264 points and in ninth at the regionals. "This kid from Ann Arbor stayed with him until Doug decided to break away and he didn't have any problems winning it."

Tolson is the lone Wayne representative to the state, but the area will also send two Franklin runners — Paul Coburn and Jeff Bristow. Westland John Glenn's Santo Campbell also qualified.

Coburn, a junior, finished a strong third at the regionals with a 15:41 performance. Bristow came in 14th. Campbell finished 17th in the pack. Ann Arbor Pioneer, with a total of 63 points, claimed the regional team title while West Bloomfield was runner-up (88), followed by Adrian which garnered 176 points, Northville (203), Farmington (215), Ann Arbor Huron (218), Livonia Stevenson (219) and Walled Lake Central (255) placed ahead of Wayne.

Packed in 10th through 15th were Belleville (274), Westland John Glenn (299), Livonia Churchill (311), Livonia Franklin (317) and Plymouth Canton (322).

At the girls' regionals, Glenn's Pam Prater, a junior, qualified for the state championship by finishing 12th in the field. She was clocked in 20:06 and will compete on Saturday at Faulkwood Country Club. Other John Glenn finishers were Sherri Turner (61), Lisa Steffes (70), Michelle Crimboli (71), Donna Crechiolo (73), Sandy Martinez (76) and Jean But (79).

Wayne's Lena Kasper finished 15th over-all which also makes her a state qualifier.

Meanwhile, Coach Jerry Sukiatas' Rockets ran "a perfect

Churchill pulls surprise on Franklin

Livonia Franklin Coach Armand Vigna can't believe the streak of bad luck his team has run into this season.

It wasn't the 14-7 loss to cross-town rival, Churchill, that upset him last Friday, but the rash of luck his players have had to play around.

"I can't believe the things that are happening to us this year," Vigna moaned. "I'm not offering them as an alibi — but, first of all let me point out that Churchill has an excellent team and they did a fine job on us."

Then, Vigna reeled off the rash of hard luck events which included: an injury to Dave Rittig, an offensive guard-linebacker in the second series of plays; Jeff Damaske, ejected from the game; center Jack Williams, ruptured hamstring muscle during halftime warmups, to name but a few unfortunate events.

"Should I go on?" Vigna rhetorically asked. "It got so bad out there that we didn't have a center or someone to snap the ball to our punters."

The loss left Franklin with a 3-5 record as it prepares to host another cross-town rival, Bentley. The two will wrap up the season Saturday at 2 p.m. at Franklin.

"Bentley is a much improved team," Vigna pointed out, "and because of the natural city rivalry between our two schools anything can happen."

Churchill will also face a city rival, Stevenson, in their finale. Both teams have won seven of eight games which include their respective conference championships.

Churchill broke a scoreless first quarter against Franklin with a 31-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Bill Keller to Ron Schueneman. That go-ahead TD came with 1:26 left in the first half. Franklin took the lead in the third quarter when QB Jon McCarthy hit Tim Prysziecki on a 12-yard scoring pass which tied the score, then McCarthy put the Patriots out ahead, 7-6, with the extra point. The TD capped a nine play midfield drive.

But Churchill didn't waste any time coming back. The two-time Western Six champs put what proved to be the winning touchdown on the board on a Keller eight-yard jaunt into the end zone in the final quarter. It took the Chargers seven plays after a short Franklin punt to the Churchill 47 yard line.

Keller got the two-point conversion via a pass to Joe O'Brien. Keller had an excellent night passing. He connected on 10 of 17 aeriels for 142 yards while McCarthy made good on three of 10 passes for 22 yards. The Patriots outrushed their rivals 120 to 85 yards with Ron Gunter accounting for 53 in 11 carries.

Franklin's middle linebacker Ron Lohman, defensive tackle Tom Martin and Doug White, an outside linebacker who doubled as an offensive tackle, playing outstanding games on defense.

But one of the problems Franklin had was adjusting to a "triple set" — three receivers at one side.

"Ken (Ken Kaestner, Churchill coach) sprung a surprise on us," Vigna said. "They did considerable damage to our defense with that formation, and we just couldn't handle it."

Cherry Hill lets GC West slip past, 14-8

When opportunity knocks, one is supposed to turn his head.

That's what apparently happened to Cherry Hill Friday night at Garden City West. Ahead 8-0 after 12 minutes, Coach Jerry Pawloski's Spartans had several good opportunities to knock out their Tri-River Conference rivals.

Instead, West turned around in the second half and won a 14-8 victory.

"We had the opportunities," Pawloski said. "We just didn't capitalize them."

Consequently, the Spartan's final league record stands at 3-4, and they'll take a 3-5 record into Saturday's final game against Clarenceville.

Saturday is Cherry Hill's "Parents' Day" and Pawloski sees a tough battle with a team that has won five of its eight starts this season.

The Spartans drew first blood against West as they managed to put eight points on the scoreboard thanks to Randy Frederick's three-yard touchdown plunge and Mike Johnson's two-point conversion.

Frederick's TD put the final touches on to a 55-yard sustained drive.

West had its share of problems in the first half. The Tigers committed four key turnovers — two of them interceptions which Jeff Searcy hauled in, and two were fumbles which went to Johnson and Dan Gaskin.

West tied up the score in the third quarter and broke the deadlock with three minutes left in the game on a Tom Miner touchdown pass that covered 33 yards.

Frederick had most of Cherry Hill's rushing yardage, picking up 55 on 10 carries and John LaScola, moved into the role of quarterback when Aaron Gregory was injured a week ago, gave an excellent counting of himself.

The Spartans received a stellar performance from linebacker Gary Bilek, who had six solos and an equal number of assists. Byron Nichols accounted for five unassisted and six assists.

Brock wins SAC title

Coming off of winning the league championship, Dearborn Heights Robichaud's Brock finished second at the Class B regional cross country championships to qualify for Saturday's state finals at Spring Lake.

Brock, a senior, was runner-up at the regional held at Willow Park in New Boston. His time of 15:31 will enable him to compete for the state title.

Meanwhile, the 17-year-old distance runner won the Suburban Athletic Conference title thanks to a 15:38 finish. That helped Coach Jim Hadley's Bulldogs earn a second place in the final standings.

Inkster won its first SAC cross country championship with 46 points. Robichaud had 50, followed by Ecorse (55), River Rouge (65), while Highland Park was a "no show."

RANDY ALEXANDER

Inkster gridder honored by WSU

Randy Alexander of Inkster was honored by his team and his conference for outstanding efforts in helping Wayne State's victory over conference rival Ferris State.

Alexander was selected as Tartar Offensive Player of the Week by Head Football Coach Dick Lowry. It was the fourth time that Alexander has received that honor over the last two seasons.

He also became the first Tartar named as the Great Lakes Conference Offensive Player of the Week this season.

All the "WSU Express" did was gain 140 yards on 22 rushing attempts, catch five passes and score the Tartars' only touchdown of the day.

The play was an electrifying 30-yard run in which Alexander carried two Ferris State tacklers into the end zone.

Alexander is far and away the team's leading rusher with over 500 yards gained. Last season, he led the team in rushing with 697 yards.

Head Coach Lowry also named Detroit's Larry Smith as Tartar Defensive Player of the Game. Smith spearheaded a defense which held Ferris State to nine first downs, dropped the quarterback for losses nine times, intercepted a pass and recovered a fumble.

Smith made eight tackles and sacked the quarterback twice.

Clarenceville ruins Viking Homecoming

There's a time to celebrate and a time to play, and Coach Arnice James tried to get that across to his Viking gridgers last week.

Unfortunately, the Vikings were celebrating Homecoming when they should have buckled down to play a strong Clarenceville Friday afternoon. The result was: Clarenceville 20, Inkster 0.

Registration is set for Jr. cagers

The Wayne Junior Basketball Association will hold registration between 9 a.m. until 3 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 10 and Nov. 17 at the Wayne Community Center, Howe and Annapolis rds.

There is a $2 registration fee. The league is open to girls in grades four through seven and boys in grades four through seven. For further information please contact Bill Hawley at 595-3479.

"Our players were thinking more about Homecoming than winning the game," Coach James said afterwards. "And the disastrous outcome was there for everyone to see. I feel that Clarenceville has an excellent team, but we helped make them look good."

Inkster racked up 175 yards in penalties and didn't do much offensively - Derrick Stevenson was the leading Viking ball carrier - he had an anemic 27 yards for his day's work.

"If we don't snap out of it Saginaw will destroy us," James said. "I think the kids were living in the past. (Inkster rattled Robichaud the week before 50-0 and in sports, especially in football, you're in a lot of trouble if you don't get up for each game."

Clarenceville got on the board in the first quarter and had a 14-0 edge at halftime. The Spartans increased that margin to 20-0 with a fourth quarter touchdown.

Thaddeus Forman, Derrick Wyant and Roy Jones did all they could for the Vikings to stop their visitors, but it was a case of too little, too late as the Inkster record slipped to 3-5 on the year.

Who has the ball?

Grid pile-up could be injurious to one's health especially if you have the ball and are on the bottom of the pile. And here Livonia Franklin gridders (white jersey) lunge for an unidentified Churchill ballcarrier in last Friday's confrontation. Franklin came out of the pile without the ball, and on the shortend of a 14-7 decision. Story is on Page 3.

Glenn's girls' swim team hands champs crucial loss

John Glenn squeezed past Redford Union, 87-85, and the victory over the defending Northwest Suburban Conference girls' swimming champion could open the door to the 1979 championships for the Westlanders.

"The victory proves we have the talent to win the league," said Glenn Coach Jim Lawrence after his team's eighth triumph in nine starts. (Glenn is 3-0 in the league). "The kids did the job that had to be done. And that's why we won this meet."

The Westlanders picked up five out of a possible 11 first places as the medley relay team of Kelly Lang, Sandy Hawkins, Karin Stover and Sandy Martinez turned in a record-setting time of 2:06.6.

Miss Stover also set a record for the 100-yard butterfly (1:08.7) and posted the winning time for the 200-yard freestyle (2:13.5). Martinez picked up the 50-yard freestyle in 27.4, and Janet Borgerding carded the only other Rocket win. She compiled 174.7 points to place first in diving.

Earlier in the week Glenn took five first places and went on to defeat non-conference rival Belleville, 92-80.

"Both myself and coach Debbie Sanders were pleased and extremely proud the way our swimmers performed," said Lawrence. "We're getting an excellent crop of sophomores from our junior high program and they're blending in with our seniors. We're really pleased."

Huron sends Tecumseh on its way, whipping 'em, 28-8

It was one of those "now-or-never" deals for New Boston Huron.

And Coach Tom LaBeau's Chiefs made certain that Tecumseh will never forget their last league game. Without long or acrimonious ceremonies, Huron bid Tecumseh farewell from the conference, whipping their arch-rivals, 28-8.

It was the Chiefs' last chance: the defending league champs are pulling up stakes and heading for another conference next year.

Behind Bob Bokor's record-setting 259-yards and two touchdowns, the Chiefs left Tecumseh in shock. And it may take some time before they recover.

"We played one heck of a fine game," LaBeau said. "We were due and it couldn't have come at a more appropriate time. After all, Tecumseh was leaving the league, and we had never beaten them."

The victory lifted New Boston to a 4-3 won-lost league record and a tie for third with Flat Rock in the final standings. Grosse Ile and Monroe Catholic Central, each with one loss, wound up as co-champs.

Bokor scored on runs of one-yard and 44 in rushing for those 259 yards in 25 attempts. He also had a 55-yard touchdown called back because of a clipping.

Ahead 12-0 at the end of the first quarter, Huron scored two second half touchdowns before Tecumseh got on the board. Shawn Slayton scored on a three-yard run and Jim Bowman lunged over from the one to account for the other New Boston scores.

Bowman, who moved into the backfield when Bruce Smith sustained a leg injury, looked good as he rushed for 82 of the Chiefs' 364 rushing yards. He had 17 carries. Dave Teague, an offensive guard and linebacker, played a superb game for the Chiefs, who had an overwhelming edge in first downs (22-14), rushing yardage (364-24), but lost the aerial war 158 to 34.

Glenn, Wayne clash in season's finale

The Zebras got another break after the ensuing kickoff. Wyandotte mishandled a pitchout which Wayne recovered at the Zebra 40-yard line and, with Shumpert and Rogers alternating as ballcarriers, Wayne reached the six where Covault took it in for the touchdown.

Wayne amassed 268 yards to the Bruins' 80 and had 11 first downs to the loser's 10. Covault hit on 3 of 9 passes for 21 yards as compared to Wyandotte's 9 of 25 for 77 yards. The Bruins however fumbled six times and lost the ball on three occasions.

Wilson, who played a superb defensive game, and Rize, credited with 15 tackles and the jarring tackle that led to the crucial fumble are good reasons why the Zebras managed to earn their fourth shutout. Another, Gary Duplessis, a middle guard, had nine solos.

Glenn jarred Stevenson with John Johnston's 25-yard field goal in overtime. But the Livonians came back in their series to score a touchdown and pull out a cliff-hanging 20-17 out-of-league victory Friday night.

Glenn battled from behind twice to tie the score and went ahead in the overtime period before finally succumbing, 20-17, to the Interlakes League Champs, Livonia Stevenson.

Glenn's coaching staff of Gordon and his associates got the most from their injury-riddled squad. For instance, Ken Liedel, who played tailback, suffered a slight concussion at the end of the first half and did not play the second half. Scott Thornton, who has had a bruised shoulder, was held out the first half and gained 74 yards in 12 carries in the last two quarters.

The game statistics were very close. Unofficially, Glenn had 13 first downs to Stevenson's eight, rushed for 153 yards to its visitor's 181 and passed for 57 yards to the Spartans' 67 yards.

Dave Hall, Stevenson's senior quarterback, was probably the eventual difference in the game. The 6-foot-4, 197-pound signal-caller, who also played tough on defense, completed six of nine aerials for 67 yards and one touchdown. However, Glenn's Greg Walters, who played a tremendous game at defensive back, intercepted two passes, the last one stopping a last-minute drive that had carried to the Glenn 30-yard-line. The tough 5-10, 160-pound senior made tackles all over the field and also carried the ball four times for 26 yards in the first half, once sprinting 13 yards for a first down.

Stevenson, which was favored, scored first in the opening period when 6-3, 205-pound defensive end

Cap Pethers pounced on a Glenn fumble on the Rocket 40-yard-line.

The Spartans, showing their quick-strike ability, scored in just four plays. QB Hall sprinted 18 yards on first down to the Glenn 22-yard-line. Two running plays gained five yards before Hall passed 16 yards over the middle to Pethers in the middle of the end-zone for the TD. Hall dropped straight back to pass, dropped the ball, but it bounced right back up into his hands, he rolled out right and had plenty of time and savvy to hit the wide-open Pethers. Hall kicked the extra point and the Spartans led 7-0 at 2:03 of the first period.

Spartan Don Hauck made a scintillating 37-yard punt return to the Glenn 37-yard-line to put Stevenson in scoring position again. However, a great open field tackle by Liedel and Walters' theft of Hall's pass on Glenn's 17-yard-line, ended that threat.

Gordon's Rockets totally dominated the second half, running off 28 plays to Stevenson's 15, but once again the "big play" beat Glenn. In one of the most impressive, time-consuming drives in Glenn's history, the Rockets took the second half kickoff and drove 75 yards in 15 plays to tie the score with 1:49 remaining in the third quarter. They used 10 minutes and 11 seconds in covering the real estate before junior John Johnston kicked the extra point to tie it at 7-all.

With Liedel out with a slight concussion, Coach Gordon inserted Thornton at fullback and junior Greg O'Neil at tailback. Thornton and O'Neil picked up key yardage, but it was the passing of junior quarterback Rick Discher that really gave the march momentum. Discher hit slotback Anthony Cabrera with two tremendous strikes for first downs in the drive. Discher's 18-yard strike to Cabrera on third down and 10 gave Glenn a first down on Stevenson's 46.

Then the fast-maturing Discher drilled a 24-yard pass to Cabrera that carried to the Spartans' three-yard-line. The play came on a key third-and-12 situation on Stevenson's 27. Then Discher, who connected on four of five second half passes, rolled right and hit end Bill Dye with a two-yard toss in the back of the endzone for the tying score.

However, that long drive was nullified 97 seconds later as Stevenson scored in just three plays from its own 37. Two eight-yard gains preceded Hauck's 47-yard scoring run up the middle in which he was hit hard at least three or four times by Glenn tacklers, but broke free and raced to paydirt. Hall's extra point kick made it 14-7 with 0:11 remaining in the third period.

There was no quit in Glenn, however, as the Rockets took the ensuing kickoff and marched 64 yards in nine plays to tie it at 14-all when Johnston added the extra point with 6:49 left in the game.

O'Neil covered a Stevenson fumble on the Spartan 37-yard-line with 5:37 left, but Spartan Bob Snyder intercepted Discher's pass on his own 5-yard-line to end the threat. Stevenson picked up four first downs and moved to Glenn's 30-yard-line with 30 seconds left before Walters collided with QB Hall, who was the intended pass receiver on a "trans-continental" pass play. Hall was knocked unconscious for a few moments and Walters intercepted the ball for a great defensive maneuver.

In the overtime period, Glenn went first as each team had the ball for four downs on the opponents' 10-yard-line. Glenn's two runs gained one yard and a pass fell incomplete before Johnston gave Glenn a 17-14 lead on a 26-yard field goal.

However, Stevenson won it on a 3rd-and-four play when QB Hall pitched to halfback Dick Parks, who circled left end for the TD.

RANDY PICHAN

Pichan sees action at Grand Valley

Ex-New Boston Huron cage and football star Randy Pichan is muscling his way into Grand Valley State's starting football lineup.

Pichan, a 6-3, 190-pound freshman, who came into the Lakers' camp as a quarterback, was recently transferred to a defensive linebacker's slot to beef up a defense that has its problems this season.

Since then Pichan has seen most of his action on the kickoff team, but he also has been doing well at his new position. He has a total of seven tackles on the year for the defending Great Lakes Conference champs.

The Lakers are currently 2-2, after a tough loss to Wayne State.

race" at the league championships to finish first. That victory gave them the 1979 Northwest Suburban Conference title, their sixth in eight years.

Three teams — Glenn, Livonia Franklin and North Farmington — went into the league meet with identical 4-1 records. The Westlanders managed to pull off the win thanks to fourth, fifth, seventh, eighth and 12th finishes.

Franklin, however, had the individual winner in Coburn who covered the three-miles in 16:46. That helped Coach Bob Holmes's Patriots wind up second over-all.

Glenn's best was Campbell who turned in a 17:07 effort, while teammate Jim Kancierz was fifth (17:14), Tim Unold, seventh (17:18), Pete Stephens, eighth (17:28) and Tom Andrews was 12th (17:43).

Bristow gave the Livonians a third place, trailing Garden City East's Mike Stapleton across the finish line.

The Northwest Suburban Conference final standings put John Glenn on top, followed by Livonia Franklin, North Farmington, Redford Union, Garden City East and Redford Thurston.

In the mean time the Great Lakes Conference league meet was to be decided Oct. 30 at Willow Park in New Boston. Undeclared Fordson was favored to retain the championship. Despite two dual meet losses, Righetti feels his team could possibly emerge with the win the league meet.

"I wouldn't count ourselves out of it," Righetti said. "I'm hoping that the others are. We have a good shot of winning the league meet."

3rd period rallies key to Over 30 hockey wins

Third period heroics highlighted the action this week in the Wayne-Westland Over 30 Hockey League.

Jake's Lounge came up with two final period goals to tie The Jock Shop, 3-3. That tie enabled Jake's to remain atop of the Berrington Division.

Jerry Grube scored a pair of goals and Arnie McClellan got the third tally in the first period and Jock Shop looked as if it were on route to an easy victory. But Corky Hays and Bob Capler found the range in the third period, enabling the league pacesetter to salvage the tie. Larry Kaifesh fired in the other goal.

Futurama Engineering remained "hot" as the undefeated Bonkowski Division leader scored a 4-1 victory over Jack's Sports Center. Goalie Tim Vanderburgh, who has earned the title of "the league's top netminder", has allowed only three goals in three games.

The Engineers scored three times in the third period to break a 1-1 second period tie as Chuck Jennett paced the assault with two goals and John Kunz and Dave Frankling each added one.

John Colligan got the lone tally for the losers.

Meanwhile, Brock's Home scored four times in the last period to seal their second in three outings at the expense of Johnson Carbonic, 7-4.

Ken Carter's three-goal hat trick led the assault for the winners. Dave Zajac chipped in with two goals and solos went to "Buddy" Brock and Don Middaugh.

Scoring for Johnson's were Guy Moise who had two goals and Ron Johnson who finished the night with one ad did Mike Dziurgot.

Extra Point Bar found its way into the winning column after two ties to move into second place in the Berrington Division. Extra Point edged Tastee Freez 6-5 for its first victory of the season, coming from behind to do it.

The Freezers held a 4-2 edge the second period before the winners erupted for four third period scores, including the decisive marker by Mark LaFond. That came with two minutes left in the game.

Paul Cramer had three goals for the winners and Dave Fishwick added a pair. Tastee Freez received two goals from Terry Carley and one each from Joel Dickerson, Rod Dittman and Dave Milan.

Over 30 hockey games are played Sunday nights at the Wayne and Westland rinks. There is no admission charge.

Sunday, Johnson Carbonic will run up against Extra Point at 6:30 p.m., while Futurama will place its three-game winning streak on the line when it takes on Jock's Shop at 8 p.m. Both contests will be held in Westland.

In the meantime, Brock's Homes and Tastee Freez have a 9 p.m. date, and Jack's Sports will clash with Jake's Lounge at 10:30 p.m. in Wayne Arena.

Among Lilliputians

It was "Career Week" at Romulus' Wick Elementary School and the kids had an opportunity to talk and see - and even try to tackle a real collegiate football player. The griddier, Don Gotham, a 240-pound, 6-7, former Wayne Memorial star, is presently playing for Wayne State University. What were some of the questions the lilliputians asked their visitor? Well, how about, "What happens if you forget your number?" or "How do you grow up to be so big?"

Canton hosts Belleville gal cage team

U-F honors outstanding sportsmen

Detroit's undefeated welterweight Thomas Hearn and Susan Kruszewski, coordinator of women's athletics and head basketball coach at the University of Detroit, are the 1979 United Foundation Sportsman and Sportswoman of the Year.

The announcement was made at the 12th annual U-F Sports Day luncheon today in the Cartier Ballroom of the Detroit Plaza Hotel.

The winners were chosen from a group of eight nominees, selected for their outstanding contributions to our community through their involvement in athletics. Ballots were sent to sportswriters and sports broadcasters in the metropolitan Detroit area.

Competing against Hearn for Sportsman of the Year were Trevor Francis, former forward for the Detroit Express; Gregory Kelsner, forward with the Detroit Pistons; and Steve Kemp, outfielder for the Detroit Tigers.

Also contending for Sportswoman of the Year were Jeanne Bocci, marathon runner and world champion race walker; Suzanne Dooley, silver medal rollerskating champion, and Katie Monahan, champion equestrian.

Hearn, the "Motor City Cobra" is Detroit's top young boxing talent since Sugar Ray Robinson. With a professional record of 23 wins and no losses, all but one by knock-out, Hearn has impressed the boxing world.

The 6'1", 147-pound boxer has almost single-handedly revived the sport of professional boxing in Detroit. Before a record crowd of 11,115 at Olympia Stadium in January, Hearn proved he could go a long distance when he knocked out Clyde Gray, the British Commonwealth and Canadian Champion in the 10th round.

Hearn, 21, ended an illustrious amateur boxing career, which began at age 10, when he was named the most outstanding national amateur boxer for his victory in the National AAU and Golden Gloves Championship in 1977. Today, Hearn is ranked the number two welterweight in the world by the United States Boxing Association and the number six by the World Boxing Council.

During the 1978-79 season, Kruszewski coached the Titan women to an impressive 27-4 record and led her team in capturing the State of Michigan Basketball Championship by defeating Michigan State University. With a two-year 45-7 record at U of D, Kruszewski now enters her third season with the team.

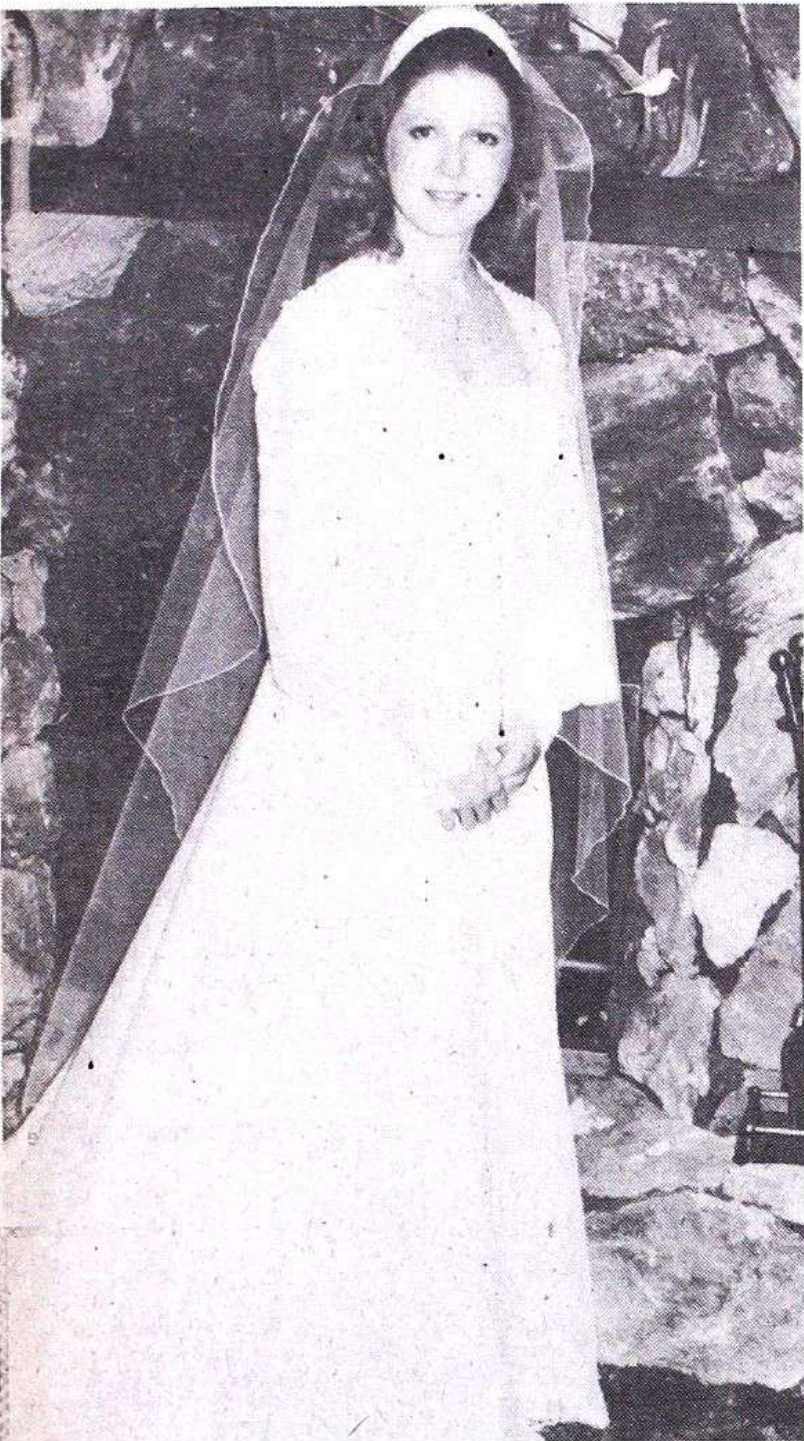

In 1977, she was appointed to her position by then athletic director Dick Vitale, after a 17-year high school coaching career, the last 14 years as Head Basketball Coach and Athletic Director at Detroit Dominican High School. Her teams won 15 divisional championships, four state district tournament titles, four regional titles and two Class A State Tournament championships, in 1973-74. Her record at Dominican was 306-63.

Kruszewski, of Mt. Clemens, is a graduate of Servite High School in Detroit and received her bachelor's degree in education from U of D in 1964. While attending U of D, Kruszewski taught and coached basketball and softball for five years at St. Cyril High School in Detroit. One of Kruszewski's highest tributes was her election to the Catholic League of Coaches Hall of Fame in 1977 as a charter member.

Last year's winners of this award were Al Fracassa, head football coach at Birmingham Brother Rice High School and Bea Farber, harness driver.

MRS. RICHARD J. COPELAND

Home in Dearborn Heights awaits newly wed Copelands

The newly wed Richard James Copelands motored to Cove Haven in the Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania for a week-long honeymoon following their Oct. 27 marriage at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Monroe. On their return they will make their home in Dearborn Heights.

Susan Marie Fant became Mrs. Copeland when she exchanged wedding bands and nuptial vows before The Rev. Hugh C. White during a six o'clock candlelight ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Troy W. Fant of 13925 North Suder, La Salle, formerly of Belleville, are parents of the bride while Dearborn residents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Copeland of 23233 Oak, are parents of the bridegroom.

For the occasion the altar was appointed with an arrangement of white and bronze Sonia mums and poms and the aisleway accented with tall candelabras and white satin bows.

Some 225 relatives and friends saw the birds escorted to the sanctuary by her father. For her wedding day Sue selected a formal gown of white chiffon, the A-line skirt falling into a chapel train outlined with silk Venice lace. Lace and seed beading also framed the scoop neckline on the little fitted bodice which was designed with clear bishop sleeves ending in wide lace cuffs.

A Juliet cap of silk Venice lace secured her hemstitched veil which drifted to chapel length over her skirt. Completing her bridal finery was a cascade of Sonia roses, stephanotis and English ivy. The bridegroom's cousin, Patricia Young, was soloist for the wedding, the organist being Hugh E. Baker.

The bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Jerry W. Fant, was honor attendant in a French toast-colored qiana gown styled with a sleeveless blouson bodice with Venice lace frosting the shoulders and neckline. Her bouquet was comprised of cascading Sonia roses and miniature carnations and ivy.

The two bridesmaids, also sisters-in-law of the bride, were Mrs. Alan C. Fant and Mrs. Michael T. Fant. Their ensembles matched that worn by the matron of honor.

Beth Ann O'Rourke, the daughter of the Thomas O'Rourkes of Woodhaven, was flowergirl at her cousin's wedding. Her toe-touching frock featured a peach chiffon overlay with ivory lace on the neckline.

The bridegroom asked his brother, Barry W. Copeland, to be bestman. The corps of ushers included R. Jeffrey Copeland, Michael T. Fant, Alan C. Fant and Jerry W. Fant, all brothers of the bridal couple.

At the K of C Hall in Monroe, where the reception was held, Mrs. Fant greeted guests in a long gown of imported ivory lace to which she added her corsage of Sonia roses. Similar flowers were presented to the bridegroom's mother who appeared in a champagne-colored gown with a back-flowing cape.

Sue, who is employed as clerk-typist for the City of Wayne, graduated from Ferris State College with an A.A.S. degree in executive secretarial. Her husband graduated from Henry Ford Community College with a 2-year certificate in auto mechanics. He currently is enrolled in an automotive technology course at HFCC while employed at the Ford Motor Company's research and engineering division as a test technician.

The rehearsal dinner was held at the Colonial House in Monroe the evening before the wedding.

Associated Newspapers salute

D. H. Raymond of Belleville who'll turn 90 on Nov. 6

One of Belleville's oldest residents, Darryl Raymond Sr., will become a member of the nonagenarian society come Nov. 6 — his 90th birthday. And, in marking his big day, his family will host a 2' til reception in his honor Nov. 4 at the First United Methodist Church of Belleville. His many friends and relatives, who are hereby being invited to come wish him a happy birthday, are reminded that their presence alone will please him — no gifts, please.

A native of Belleville, (then a village), he was born Nov. 6, 1889 and lived in the city practically all his 90 years. He attended Cleary Business College, worked in an Onaway, Mich. bank for two years and then struck out for Little Rock, Ark. where he worked for a wholesale manufacturer of road culverts and steel tanks.

On his return to Belleville, he did a re-run of his earlier employment as a youth and worked in a grocery store until 1918 when he began a short stint with the U.S. Army. He had advanced to battalion sergeant major with the 78th Infantry at Battle Creek by the time he was discharged 10 months later.

As a civilian once again, he took a job with the National Grocery Company but found indoor work not to his liking. It was then he took up the distributorship for Standard Oil Company which was to see him through his next 34 years and retirement in 1953. During that period, from 1920-25, he also served as village clerk.

In 1920, he married Josephine Bradshaw, their union producing two sons, Donald, who lives in Belleville with his wife, Ruth, and Darryl Jr., who with his wife, Bea, also resides in Belleville. There are three grandchildren: Lorrie Dummam of Belleville; Douglas Raymond of Dearborn and Tim Raymond, a student at Eastern Michigan University. His great-grandchildren are Joel and Heidi Dummam of Belleville.

Don Raymond recently retired from the same company — Standard Oil — from which his father retired, having worked as a jobber with the local bulk plant. Darryl Jr. is a partner with Richard Smith in the Deering Insurance Agency in Belleville.

On June 17 the senior Raymonds celebrated their 59th wedding anniversary — the latter years finding Mrs. Raymond in ill health which prevented her from previous club and church activities. Mr. Raymond, who has taken over many of the household tasks, attributes his longevity, we hear, to having kept active all the 26 years since he retired.

Methodists schedule 2-day music program

A special 2-day musical evangelism program is on the calendar at the First United Methodist Church of Belleville which has scheduled singer-guitarist-minister-recording artist Rick Bonfim for Nov. 3 and 4.

An ordained minister, serving in the area of Youth Ministries throughout the United States for the last 15 years, Bonfim's music-media concert at 7:30 p.m. will be preceded by two other activities.

At 4:30 p.m. area youth will meet Rick during a program entitled "Almost Anything Goes." An all-church carry-in-supper sponsored by the youth at 6:15 p.m. will follow. Those participating are to bring two dishes to share, one a meat dish, as well as table service. Rolls and beverage will be provided.

On Sunday at 9:15, Rick will speak on "Cults" and at the 10:30 worship service he will concentrate on a theme of stewardship and commitment.

Bonfim, a gifted performer, comes from Rio de Janeiro, Brazil where he was influenced by the Brazilians, Luiz Bonfá and Vinícius de Moraes, popular composers. He has a record of over 2,000 concerts of contemporary religious and classical music, singing, playing and sharing with thousands in 45 states and six countries.

He is a graduate of Valdosta State College with a B.A. in psychology; Emory University with an M.A. in divinity and the University of Georgia with a B.A. in journalism. He is currently working at the U-G on a master's degree in speech communication.

By LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

Although I'm not too much for dwelling on the past and wishing my kids were little again, there ARE times when I miss certain occasions (Christmas mornings in their Doctor Dentons, for instance.)

But the one time of the year when I, in NO way hanker for "once upon a time" is this very occasion — Halloween! Cheez, what a rat race that always was! Having been terribly, terribly clever when Lu was a little girl and always outfitting her in cute, original costumes (NEVER a store-bought outfit), I set a precedent and found the grandmas, aunts and uncles and close friends eagerly awaiting "this year's character."

'Twasn't too bad when we had that only child to dress but when two little sisters came along several years later, that meant THREE terribly clever ideas. What an absolute maniac I'd become when they'd bound in from school on "that" day and, eyes shining, would eagerly ask what they were going to "be" tonight. Being the packrat I am, there was always a "These would-be-good-for-Halloween-costumes-sometime" box in the attic and we'd drag it down each All Hallow's Eve to see what we could improvise THIS time.

We'd always come up with SOMETHING but, in the process, I'd become an absolute itch-bay — grumbling, cussin', screaming at myself — and making everyone wish I'd just take off on my broom.

But we managed to turn our trio into dottering little old ladies, (they had to PLAY the part, too) gun-toting cowboys, vivacious cheerleaders, morose hippies, flirtatious flappers, shy just-off-the-boat-sters, nurses and Dutch girls (the same cap doing double duty here — folded up one year, twisted up at the ends another), country bumpkins, southern belles, etc., etc., etc.

And I don't know how the night-of-October-31st-weather has been for THIS decade's trick and treat days (don't pay special attention anymore) but during our girls' "begging" days, it was almost always cold or cold and rainy. That meant not only costumes but underpinnings (warm ones) which kept 'em from the pneumonia ward. And, too, it prompted boots and I'll never forget the year Carol was a dainty little bride — in her sister's clunky white boots rather than dainty slippers.

The year Susie turned flapper, tho, we lucked out and her outfit wasn't klutzed up with a sweatshirt or galoshes. She even had those kiddie high-heels to accent her rolled stockings and fringed sack dress. And, oh-h, did SHE do a good vamp!

Yep, I sure don't miss those start-to-get-'em-dressed-as-soon-as-school's-out marathons. Not at all! But it sure is fun looking back over the photographs and seeing how darn cute (and clever) we DID dress them!

Lest I threw you a curve last week and gave the impression that I'm one of those Mrs. Clean nuts, let me set you straight! It's rare that I'm home to begin with but when I DO stay put, I always overdo and end up like a limp noodle. But that's rare, folks... might-ty rare!!

And, in the event others are wondering (as an old — no, I take that back — as a friend of long-standing did) the reason I refer to my beloved as BG is cuz those are two-thirds of his initials and, I think you'll agree, it's better than referring to him by his first and last ones. Besides, what better way to tuck him into the conversation? Phyllis Diller and Joan Rivers already have "Fang" and "Edgar" so what else was left?

If you're Taylor Caldwell buff (as I've been) you've either already completed her latest, "Bright Flows the River", have it on hand or are on the waiting list at the library. Whatever, being one of her followers, you KNOW that she has a new book out! And you'll probably read every last word as you always have.

If you DON'T dig Caldwell-type rhetoric, avoid this one. It's a deep, serious and rather depressing novel — nothing to help lift the mid-fall doldrums if you're seeking THAT solution.

This one's several hundred pages on a very rich man's inner struggle; about a man who gains the whole world but almost loses his own soul and identity.

Confined to a luxurious sanatorium after a suicide attempt, the principal character is faced with a choice which has threatened his very existence. He finally faces his dilemma because of the concern and interest of an old army acquaintance who also finds himself coming to grips with his own life while observing his disturbed friend.

Caldwell's novels usually lean toward in-depth studies of human nature — writings that cause you to think, ponder, question, wonder.

If you've never bothered with her before, don't start on Caldwell with "Bright Flows the River" — go back to some of her earlier penning and "get acquainted" with the author before you tackle this one.

YOU'LL HATE ME FOR THIS — BUT — counting every last day (except Thanksgiving), there are a mere 53 days to hit the malls before that day-of-days.

And I've made a Halloween-time resolution to shop only where gift boxes are available at no cost and where stores have the old-time graciousness to gift-wrap at no cost as well. Believe it or not, in these ho-hum days of merchandising, there ARE still places who give old-fashioned customer courtesies.

TO THE READER WHO CALLED to inquire about our recent Apple Cake recipe (on a day when I wasn't available): No, nothing was left out of the list of ingredients. That's it!

As for the icing which you told Diane was too thin — that's the way it is. And, yes, it probably COULD be put under the broiler, but then, it would be like our Oatmeal Cake recipe and NOT different as this one is. The icing kinda runs down to the sides of the pan but if you just swirl it and move it centerward for awhile, it sets up and, eventually, is a rather "interesting" topping, I think.

TRIVIA SENT IN from a weekly reader (remember the Weekly Reader?):

If the current rate of inflation continues, a worker making $5 an hour in 1978 would, in the year 2077, make $4,799 per hour.

A newborn baby's head accounts for about one-quarter of its entire weight.

It is estimated that millions of trees in the world are accidentally planted by squirrels who bury nuts and then forget where they hid them.

THE BOTTOM LINE: Some men believe that a woman's place is in the home. They expect to find her there immediately after she gets off work.

Food tips for fall

... Prepare foods in Brown-In-Bag ahead of time and refrigerate. When ready to heat and serve, the bag goes directly from refrigerator to microwave or conventional oven and cooks foods quickly and easily.

... Oven cooking bags can be used for freezer storage for one month.

The bag provides protection for both cooked and uncooked foods. For longer freezer storage, overwrap the bag in heavy duty aluminum foil.

... An oven cooking bag offers little or no cleanup after the meal. With recipe ingredients contained inside the bag, there's no pan to wash and no oven spatter, either.

... A new apple crop is arriving in local markets. Start the season off right by preparing your favorite "baked apple" recipe in a Brown-In-Bag. The bag keeps the apples moist and juicy; they retain their shape and the skins don't shrivel and crack.

In another time

Only a few weeks remain for historic Fort Wayne's season. The fort, located at West Jefferson at the foot of Livernois in southwest Detroit, closes for the year on Nov. 28. Until then the hours will be 9:30 to 5 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday and 11:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. Sunday. Built in the 1840s, the fort has been restored to its Civil War appearance, and an uniformed interpretive staff embellishes the historical accuracy. A major addition to the fort is the Great Lakes Indian Interpretive Museum, housed in one of the many buildings on Fort Wayne's grounds. Members of the fort's interpretive staff — Esther Hayes (from left) and Becky Stankwiler, both of Detroit, and Marcie Stewart of Ecorse — show off some of their Civil War crafts for visitors. For further information on the fort, call 849-0299.

During November

Old-fashioned cooking aromas fill Village

Old-fashioned cooking simmers at Greenfield Village each weekend during November, and visitors see how their great-grandmothers — and even great-great-grandmothers — bustled around the kitchen and nourished young America.

Each Friday, Saturday and Sunday in November (excluding Nov. 30) skilled craftspersons cook early American fare in four historic houses. Each period meal and preparation, some dating back to the mid-1600s, is authentic down to the aroma of authentic herbs and spices.

Visitors see the exact reproductions of early utensils and table settings in use — the leather mugs and pottery of the 1600s, the tinware of the 1700s, and the enamel ware and the manual utensils of the 1900s. The food and cooking utensils in each case correspond to an early period when the historic home was occupied.

In the Susquehanna House, a plantation home from Maryland, a turkey is roasted in a reflector oven, a common device for roasting game during the 1700s. The stuffing, called forcemeat, is made from an authentic early recipe.

In the Plympton House, a duck on a spit and fish are roasted during a fireplace cooking demonstration, a technique necessitating several small fires instead of a single large one. The cooking method was common in the mid-1600s.

The cooking demonstration in the Henry Ford Home recalls the early 19th century, and the fare will alternate between steamed brown bread or steamed apples. The food will be cooked on a wood-burning stove, aptly named "Farmer's Friend No. 9." The Ford Home also will feature spiced apple rings.

At the Heintz House, birthplace of the Heinz condiment enterprise, chili sauce and a special mixed 19th century relish will be prepared on a wood-burning stove.

Henry Ford Museum has mounted a temporary exhibition of the Breech Collection of English, European and Chinese Export porcelain in the special exhibits building in the Museum's Street of Early American Shops. The gift provides examples of styles and wares not previously represented at the Museum.

The collection, composed primarily of 18th century dinner and tea wares (more than 200 individual pieces), was collected by Mrs. Ernest R. Breech, and donated to the museum in memory of her late husband.

These fine porcelain objects represent several Continental porcelain factories, patronized by princes, as well as two more independent English enterprises. The Breech Collection includes many examples from the Worcester works and one example from the Caughley works in England, and wares from the Meissen and Ludwigsburg factories in Germany.

Collected during extensive travels, Mrs. Breech's magnificent gift greatly increases the museum's holdings of English and European porcelain.

Particularly interesting are a Worcester tea set (1765-1770) with enameled decoration, two Meissen plates (1740-1750) with Japanese-inspired decoration, and a Chinese Export porcelain dinner service (1790-1795), decorated with the arms of the Barwell family of Norwich, England.

Nov. 6 concert honors composer John Philip Sousa

From sea to shining sea, celebrities and fans of the concert band world will assemble at 8:15 p.m. Nov. 6 on Detroit's Ford Auditorium to pay tribute to America's very first musical ambassador to the world — John Philip Sousa — on the occasion of his 125th birthday anniversary.

A documentary concert, written and produced by its director, Dr. Leonard B. Smith, will feature the internationally acclaimed Detroit Concert Band and such giants of the music world as Meredith Willson of Los Angeles, Calif., whose ever-popular show is being prepared for another run on Broadway — this time with Dick Van Dyke as "The Music Man"; Lt. Col. William F. Santelmann, former leader of the U.S. Marine Band of Washington, D.C.; Ronald H. Demkee, youthful conductor of America's oldest civilian concert band in America at Allentown, Penn.; Sousa biographer Paul E. Bierley of Columbus, Ohio, Jan Williams of Saugerties, N.Y., who not only toured the world with the Sousa Band — appearing at the Glasgow Exposition in 1901 — but whose clarinet artistry graced Altschuler's Russian Symphony Orchestra, the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra under Toscanini, and the New York Symphony Orchestra (later re-named the New York Philharmonic) under Damrosch.

John Philip Sousa III, grandson of the "March King", who has written for Time and Life magazines, will come from New York to join in the celebration. Narrator for the program will be Detroit's own Mike Whorf of WJR "Kaleidoscope" fame.

Counterpart roles of Stellar Sousa soloists will be performed by cornetist James B. Underwood as Herbert L. Clarke; soprano Imogene Bird as Estelle Liebling; euphoniumist Earle L. Louder as Simone Mantia; tubaist Harvey Phillips as William "Bill" Bell whose virtuosity embellished the Sousa Band and the NBC Symphony Orchestra; and Detroit's own spectacular bass drummer Kenneth Baldwin as August "Gus" Helmecke who — in total rapport with Sousa — established the firm and steady beat that distinguished the Sousa Band from all others.

Patrons are urged to arrive early for leisurely examination of an exhibit of Sousa artifacts and other memorabilia on display in the lobby of Ford Auditorium.

All seats are reserved, with tickets priced at $9.50, $8.50 and $7.50. Immediately following the concert, holders of "After-Glow" tickets (available in a limited number at $17.50 each), to be held at Plaza Hotel, will have opportunity to meet and converse with the stars of the Sousa Celebration Concert.

U-M symphony opens VB fall concert series

The University of Michigan Chamber Orchestra will kick off the fall concert series being offered at Belleville High School.

The concert series is a cooperative effort of the Van Buren School District's community education department, Belleville Kiwanis Club, Belleville High School music department, Band Boosters and with the assistance of the Belleville Area Chamber of Commerce.

The concert series will open Nov. 5 with the U-M orchestra, and will be followed by the Grand Rapids Symphony Orchestra on Dec. 8.

Both concerts will be at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

will feature the music of Schubert, Ravel, Brahms and Rossini.

Concerts tentatively scheduled for the winter months are a Feb. 14 concert by the University of Michigan Jazz Band and a March 6 performance by Lyman Woodard, nationally known jazz musician, and his quintet.

Tickets for the concerts cost $4 for adults and $2 for students. A 4-concert ticket package costs $15 for adults and $8 for students.

Tickets are available by mail, 555 W. Columbia, Belleville 48111, or from members of the school's department of music, Kiwanis and Chamber of Commerce members, area merchants, at the Associated Newspapers Office on Main Street and the Van Buren Schools Administration Building.

Comedian Robert Klein performs at Music Hall

Comedian Robert Klein, star of stage, screen and television appears at Detroit's Music Hall Center on Sunday, with this hilariously funny one-man show. Offering Detroiters a delightful break from the work-a-day world, Klein has two performances on Sunday — 4 and 7:30 p.m.

Klein currently is starring on Broadway with Lucie Arnaz in Neil Simon's hit musical, "They're Playing Our Song." When he is not on stage, he is on the radio hosting "The Robert Klein Hour" which broadcasts nationwide.

His work for several years with the famous Chicago improvisational company, "Second City," set Robert Klein on the road to stardom. Since that time, Klein's name has appeared in lights across the country. He has hosted the prestigious TV shows of Johnny Carson, Dick Cavett, and Merv Griffin; he has played in seven movies including "The Owl and the Pussycat," "Hooper," and "The Bell Jar;" and in 1976, he created and starred in his own comedy show on CBS, "Klein Time."

Another mark of success, Klein performed to a sold-out audience in his first Carnegie Hall concert, "The First Annual Robert Klein Reunion." Rave reviews prompted the second and third "Reunions" which have since turned into a yearly event.

Robert Klein's talents are as well suited to the recording studio as they are to the stage. His first album, "Child of the Fifties," and his second, "Mind Over Matter," were both nominated for Grammy Awards.

Tickets are $12, $10 and $8, and are available at the Music Hall box office, 350 Madison Avenue, Detroit, on Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., or by calling 963-7680.

Raisin bread gives pudding a new twist

New twist for old favorite

Remember when your mother would treat the family to an extra special dessert, homemade bread pudding? Now you can serve that old favorite with a new twist. Raisin Bread Sandwich Pudding is easy to prepare. In lieu of chunks of bread, small raisin bread sandwiches, filled with cream cheese and strawberry jam are nestled in a custard. It's a sure-to-please dessert for your family.

Every now and then, a good and wholesome, but not too fancy dessert fits right into the warm, relaxed atmosphere of a "just us" family supper. That calls for bread pudding.

Next time why not surprise your family with a bread pudding that's deliciously different and nutritious, easy to prepare, and very kind to a budget.

Here's the twist: Make raisin bread sandwich triangles filled with strawberry jam and cream cheese. Then sauce them with a delicate custard. The result looks pretty and tastes lovely — a little like cheesecake. And while you watch it disappear quickly, you'll know the family is also gaining important nutrients.

Raisin Bread Sandwich Pudding is made of ingredients most likely already in the cupboard and refrigerator, and can be put together on the spur of the moment. It's a natural for last minute dinner ideas.

The children will like the texture of the tiny sandwiches laced with custard. The chewy, plump sun dried raisins in the bread, blended with other fruit and cream cheese, contrast well with the soft, smooth custard.

Raisin bread is talented in changing an old idea into an exciting new one.

For instance, the next time you make stuffing, use raisin bread instead. It's an easy way to add the tangy sweet flavor of raisins to your stuffing. Or, take a favorite sandwich and make it extraordinary with raisin bread.

Raisin Bread Sandwich Pudding

6 slices raisin bread
1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, softened
½ cup strawberry jam
2 cups milk
¼ cup sugar
3 eggs
Dash salt
½ teaspoon vanilla

Prepare 3 sandwiches, using cream cheese and strawberry jam for filling. Cut each sandwich into 4 triangles. Arrange overlapping triangles in buttered shallow 1½-quart baking dish. Heat milk and sugar in saucepan, stirring until sugar is dissolved. In bowl, beat eggs lightly with salt and vanilla. Pour hot milk mixture slowly into eggs, stirring constantly; then pour over sandwich triangles. Set dish in baking pan filled with about 1 inch hot water. Bake in 375-degree oven 35 to 40 minutes. Serve warm or cool. Makes 6 servings.

GUIDE

For The Week of Friday November 9 thru Thursday November 15, 1979

A new adaptation of Erich Maria Remarque's novel, "All Quiet on the Western Front," starring Richard Thomas and Ernest Borgnine, portrays the terrifying events of World War I as seen through the eyes of a young German soldier. It will air Wednesday, Nov. 14, on CBS. "All Quiet on the Western Front" is the first of four dramas of the 1979-80 semester of the CBS Television Reading Program, a nationwide script-reading project designed to utilize children's enthusiasm for television to help improve their reading skills. Parents and teachers should contact the local CBS affiliate for more information.

The 1980 cars

Less weight, more economy, with 'Spirit'

What's in store for the new car buyer of the '80s? A look through the pages of this guide to the 1980 automobiles will provide the potential buyer with a view of just some of the many innovations and auto improvements coming his way.

New technology, combined with new manufacturing techniques, will usher the new car buyer into the realm of tomorrow.

Viewed by many as the decade of technology, the 1980s will bring the advent of technology to the task of solving man's problems and our very way of life will be changed forever. Perhaps no other product produced by American ingenuity will so well represent the coming change.

For those who view change with discomfort, prepare yourself. For those who view the future with expectant pleasure of challenge answered, the 1980s will be for you.

Some of the innovations you will find while looking through these pages include new and improved applications of the diesel engine. Electronics has been incorporated into tomorrow's cars to unprecedented levels. New interior groups utilizing new materials will make the ownership of the 1980 automobile more than just a necessity. New tires, new engines, new transmissions, the addition of mini-computers, will herald the arrival of the decade of technology.

So sit back and prepare yourself for a journey into tomorrow and beyond.

What you are about to see is just a glimpse of what the 1980s will be bringing to us.

Let your imagination soar. The designers and engineers who have made these new machines available to have been having all the fun.

Now it is your turn.

The Ford Pinto with its 2.3-liter four-cylinder engine offers even greater fuel economy for 1980. The 1980 Pinto has seven new exterior colors, two new cloth interiors and three new interior trim colors. Standard are steel-belted radial-ply tires, electric rear window defroster, high-back bucket seats, full wheel covers and padded color-keyed door panels. A sporty Rallye Pack option on the 1980 Pinto includes white styled-steel wheels and trim rings, a blacked-out greenhouse area, distinctive body stripes and bold "Rallye" insignia on the sides.

The 1980 Thunderbird is available with these Town Landau split-bench seats with dual recliners, luxury door-trim panels, and full-length door armrests. Other features include 18-ounce cut-pile carpeting, a carpeted lower-door panel, a woodtone instrument-panel applique, deluxe color-keyed seat belts, a dual-note horn, an electronic instrument cluster with a digital-readout speedometer and an electronic fuel-gauge graphic display, diagnostic warning lights and an electronic digital clock.

Ford, 1980

A variety of technical advances to improve fuel efficiency and a number of innovative electronic options will be introduced on Ford Division cars for 1980.

An Automatic Overdrive Transmission, new turbocharging applications and a new small-block 4.2-liter V-8 engine top the list of fuel-efficiency improvements for Ford's new-car lineup.

Key new electronic features include an innovative keyless entry system, a unique electronic instrument cluster with digital readouts, an expanded line of audio systems, and refined electronic engine controls.

A stylish new convenience option — Recaro bucket seats — and a new-generation P-metric radial-ply tire round out Ford Division's list of major new features for 1980.

Most of the new technical and convenience features are available on the 1980 Thunderbird, although some also are offered as standard equipment or options on the 1980 Ford LTD, Granada, Fairmont and Mustang.

"For 1980, we have made many product changes where they count — in fuel, operating and space efficiencies — while at the same time maintaining traditional levels of driving enjoyment, comfort and versatility," said Walter S. Walla, Ford Motor Company vice president and Ford Division general manager.

"Our 1980 cars have technical innovations and improvements that represent significant advances in a number of key areas."

Ford's all-new four-speed Automatic Overdrive Transmission — the only automatic overdrive offered by a domestic manufacturer — is expected to improve fuel efficiency by up to four miles per gallon in highway driving. It has an innovative fourth gear with a direct mechanical lockup for greater efficiency and improved highway fuel economy. In overdrive, the engine turns at a slower speed, saving gas, money and engine wear.

The new 4.2-liter engine is a lighter-weight V-8 derived from Ford's proven 5.0-liter engine. A smaller bore and other internal engine improvements result in improved economy of about one mile per gallon, a weight reduction of about 60 pounds, and an increased horsepower output-per-liter of about 10 per cent.

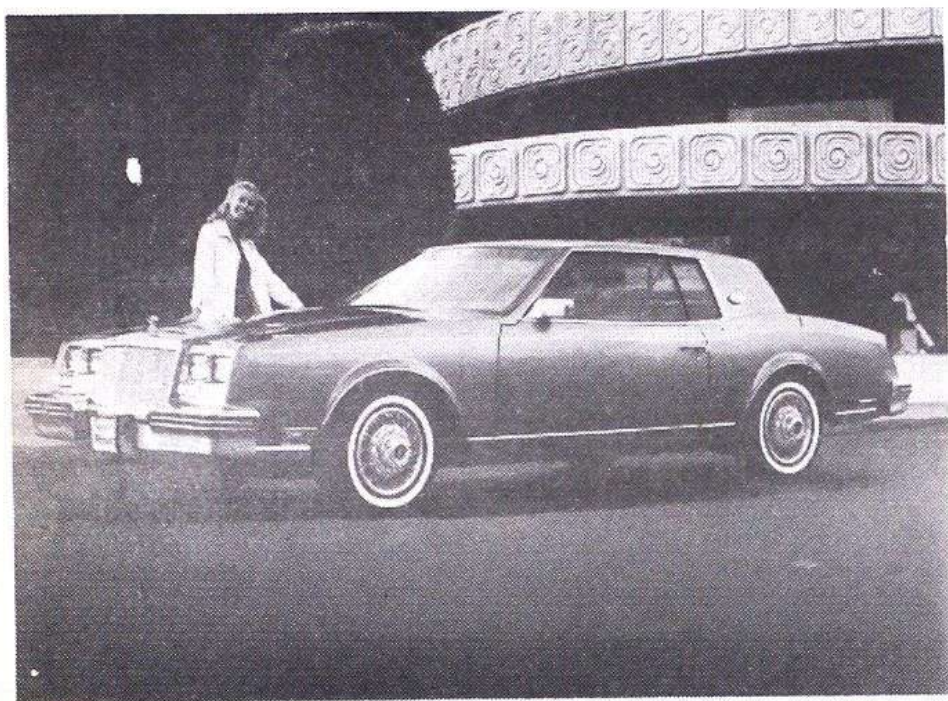

Ford's popular turbo option provides performance and economy benefits and is now available on the Fairmont, as well as the Mustang. The 2.3-liter turbocharged overhead-cam engine offers V-8 acceleration along with fuel economy similar to a four-cylinder engine. It is available with a three-speed automatic transmission on Fairmont and with either a four-speed manual or an optional three-speed automatic on Mustang.

Ford's new electronic engine control system (EEC-III) monitors and adjusts engine functions for optimum efficiency. EEC-III is standard on Ford LTD sedans and station wagons equipped with a 5.8-liter V-8 engine, and Thunderbirds and LTD's with 5.0-liter engines in California.

For 1980, Ford Division also offers the most complete line of audio-entertainment systems in the industry. The all-electronic AM-FM stereo-search radio is available without tape, with an eight-track tape player, or with a cassette-tape player and Dolby noise-reduction system. Six other radio systems are offered, including a 40-channel Citizen's Band radio with five-channel memory. Four- and six-speaker premium-sound systems are offered on several car lines with a power amplifier and upgraded speakers.

Ford's new high-pressure P-metric radial-ply tires are standard on Mustang, Fairmont, Thunderbird and Ford LTD for 1980. Increased tire pressure and an improved rubber compound reduce the tire's rolling resistance to improve fuel economy.

BUICK FOR 1980

Buick Riviera

Buick engineers have been putting the emphasis on efficiency for several years now, with the really big gains realized in the redesign of the 1977 full-size cars and the 1978 intermediates.

Major efforts are now being directed at what are called "fuel economy technology items" to gain other, sometimes substantial, improvements in overall operating efficiency.

Aerodynamics began commanding additional attention with the 1979 Environmental Protection Agency rule change that recognized improvements in this economy technology area in EPA mileage ratings.

The 1979 Riviera and then the 1980 Skylark underwent very extensive full-scale model testing in a wind tunnel to smooth out the "rough edges." Now Electra and LeSabre have been given the same attention.

As a result of this effort, the 1980 Electra and LeSabre have a reduced front-end radius and an increased slope to the hood. In the rear, the deck has a sharper forward thrust that creates a spoiler effect. Both design features reduce the overall drag coefficient of the cars.

For example, a 1980 LeSabre has a coefficient of drag that is 14 percent less than a comparable 1979 model.

Attention also has been given to tires and wheels to improve operating efficiency. The result for 1980 can be seen in the introduction of low-rolling resistance, higher pressure tires with revised construction and rubber compounding on LeSabre and Electra.

The new high-pressure tire incorporates changes in belt angles, a new bead construction, and use of new rubber compounds to reduce hysteresis.

When compared to conventional radial ply tires at the same tire pressure as the new low rolling-resistance tire, the effect can be seen in absorbed horsepower — the amount of horsepower lost in friction between the tire and the road.

At 30 miles-per-hour, the low rolling-resistance tire absorbs about 3 and one-third horsepower compared to more than 3 and two-thirds for the conventional tire. At 60 mph the difference is even more significant — slightly over seven hp versus more than eight hp for the conventional tire. The difference generally represents a 10 percent to 11 percent improvement.

An additional 5 percent to 6 percent improvement is gained by increasing the new tire's operating pressure from that previously used to the 30 psi now being introduced on LeSabre and Electra.

Recognizing that such increased tire pressures can create a "harder" ride, engineers have made tuning changes in LeSabre and Electra that include new shock absorbers with pliacell gas springs, low friction seals, and teflon banded pistons. The new design reduces harshness and impact feel and improves noise isolation and wheel control with the higher tire pressures.

Another effort at improving Buick's ride is match mounting of tires and wheels on Riviera, Electra and LeSabre.

This production-line step matches the low point of the wheel with the high point of the tire to improve concentricity and tire-wheel uniformity.

A major component to receive efficiency engineering in 1980 is the automatic transmission where a clutch has been added to the torque converter to eliminate slippage during cruising, but produce torque multiplication during acceleration.

During cruising, engine and transmission sensing devices signal an electrical solenoid which activates and deactivates the clutch.

To increase smooth, dependable operation, a number of controls have been designed into the system:

A transmission oil pressure switch to sense governor pressure and override the solenoid to release the clutch below specified car speeds.

An engine vacuum switch to release the clutch during periods of low engine vacuum. The same switch also disengages the clutch during coasting.

A thermal vacuum valve to shut off vacuum during low engine temperatures, thus disengaging the clutch for improved cold engine operation.

A brake release switch to automatically release the clutch during braking operations.

Buick will introduce this transmission efficiency improvement during the 1980 model year on selected models.

Buick also will offer the fuel efficiency of diesel engines for the first time in its history in 1980. With a fuel economy improvement of some 25 percent over their comparably sized gasoline cousins, these 5.7 L diesels will be offered in Electra Park Avenue, Electra Limited, and Electra and LeSabre Estate Wagons.

TOYOTA FOR 1980

Toyota Corolla

Toyota enters the '80s with two new models tailored to the needs of an energy-conscious America.

First, there's the familiar Corolla line—Toyota's most popular line in the U.S. and the most popular car line in the world. It has been redesigned inside and out for 1980 with a sportier look, increased interior space, a more powerful engine and a smoother riding suspension too.

And for front wheel drive fans, there is the all new Corolla Tercel—Toyota's first front wheel drive automobile available in the U.S. The Corolla Tercel combines the tradition of Corolla efficiency with a front wheel drive technology second to none.

The first major restyling of the Corolla line since 1975 finds all rear wheel drive models getting an aerodynamic wedge shape design built upon a longer wheelbase and wider tread than last year. The improved Corolla shape reduces air drag compared to previous models and increases fuel economy.

There are eight rear wheel drive Corolla models for 1980—a 2-door Sedan in two grade levels, 4-door Sedan and Wagon, and a Sport Coupe and Liftback both available in two grades.

The Corollas are equipped with a new 1.8 liter (1770cc) engine that is more powerful than any Corolla engine previously offered, yet improves the fuel economy that has become a Corolla trademark.

Interior room is a definite plus for Corolla in 1980 with increased legroom in both front and rear seats. Also, the Corolla ride is smoother than ever due to a longer wheelbase and a wider front and rear tread. The new four-link-coil spring rear suspension found on all but the Wagon model utilizes a lateral track rod for horizontal stability and is the same basic system that's on the Celica Supra.

Toyota's time-tested five-speed overdrive manual transmission is standard on all but the Standard Sedan, which features a manual four-speed transmission. There's also an optional three-speed automatic available on all Deluxe models.

The deluxe trim level is available in five models—2- and 4-door Sedan, Sport Coupe, Wagon and Liftback. All Deluxe models feature tinted glass, floor carpet and full door trim, day-night mirror, rear window defogger, resettable tripmeter and a low fuel warning lamp. Deluxe Sport Coupe and Liftback models add 2-beam rectangular headlamps, remote releases for the liftback and fuel lid, and a vanity mirror on the sun visor.

The SR5 trim available in the Sport Coupe and Liftback adds a special accent to these models. The Sport Coupe trim reflects a sporty character while the Liftback is luxury oriented.

Several options have been added to the Corolla line to give owners the flexibility of making their Corolla even more luxury oriented. Optional on all but the Standard Sedan is power steering and air conditioning. This is the first time power steering is available on the Corolla line. Two other options never before available with the Corolla are a sunroof-monroof on the Deluxe and SR5 Liftback and aluminum wheels on the SR5 Sport Coupe and Liftback. All Wagon, Sport Coupe and Liftback models offer an optional rear wiper.

A special black package available with the SR5 Sport Coupe and Liftback models includes aluminum wheels, air conditioning, rear wiper and mud flaps.

Toyota's first front wheel drive automobile, the Corolla Tercel, makes its American debut this fall in four economical models.

The Corolla Tercel 2-door Standard Sedan is Toyota's price and fuel economy leader for 1980 with a manufacturer's suggested retail price of $3,698. It carries an EPA highway rating of 43 miles per gallon (41 in Calif.) and a city rating of 33-mpg (30 in Calif.).

The Corolla Tercel also is available as a 2-door Deluxe Sedan, 3-door Deluxe Liftback and 3-door SR5 Liftback.

The front wheel drive Tercel adds a new dimension to the Corolla line while maintaining the economy and dependability that are a Corolla tradition. Its front wheel drive has the pulling power that provides excellent traction in mud and snow and superb handling on the open highway. In cornering, the front wheels are returned in the direction the driver wants to go, and because they are the driving force, the car is pulled through the turn.

The Corolla Tercel is powered by a 1.5 liter (1452cc), 4-cylinder, single overhead cam engine that is engineered to fit in the vehicle's short engine compartment. In addition to the compact 21.6-inch engine length, the differential is located beneath the fourth cylinder to further reduce the overall length of the engine-transmission-differential unit.

The powertrain is mounted longitudinally, yet takes up less space than some transversely-mounted engine packages. Ease of servicing is another benefit of the fore-aft mounting as there is better access to both sides of the engine.

The front engine-front drive powertrain results in the elimination of the driveshaft tunnel and an almost flat rear floor for increased passenger comfort. Also, the rear seat has virtually as much hiproom as the front, thanks to a lack of wheel well intrusion in the rear passenger compartment.

MAZDA FOR 1980

Mazda 626

The Mazda line for 1980 consists of improved versions of the models that sold so well in 1979: the GLC economy cars, the RX-7 sports car, the 626 sport coupe and sedan and the B2000 pickup.

For 1980, the GLC economy car has a new look in both the front and rear. The RX-7 has a new transistorized breakerless ignition that adds to the fuel economy and reduces maintenance of the two-seater sports car. The 626, introduced in early 1979, has some added trim features contributing to comfort and convenience.

The GLC was introduced in 1977 and has grown increasingly popular over the last two years because of its economy and reliability.

In 1978, Toyo Kogyo Co., Ltd., the Hiroshima-based manufacturer of Mazdas, introduced the RX-7, a sports car that was one of the biggest selling two-seaters in that year.

Then in early 1979 Toyo Kogyo brought out the 626, a sport coupe and sedan, a luxury compact with excellent fuel economy and sports car-like handling. And the powerful yet fuel-conscious B2000 pickup truck, first sold in 1979, continues to be a strong seller.

"We have made a point of designing cars that give the most value for the money," said Hitoshi Nakashima, managing director and general manager, Export, Toyo Kogyo Co., Ltd.

"We've developed a concept we call High Value Engineering; it means we design and manufacture vehicles that offer the consumer the highest value for the price. This year with the improved versions of our already highly successful models, the consumer will get even more value than he has in the past."

Mazda sales for 1978 were 80,017 units, a marked improvement over 1977. Sales for the first seven months of 1979 were 94,018, compared to 40,869 for the same period in 1978. Import sales were up across the board for the first half of 1979, but Mazda's rate of increase was greater than that of the import competition.

"We believe the reason for Mazda's exceptional growth rate during this period has been in part due to our reliance on the High Value Engineering concept," said Nakashima. "We've tried to produce the right cars at the right time at the right price and, the U.S. consumer has let us know we've accomplished what we set out to do."

Not only do these cars fit a certain niche in the marketplace, but they offer an unusual number of features as standard items. All GLCs except for the base model have a rear window defroster, split folding rear seat seatbacks, tinted window glass, full carpeting and reclining front seats as standard items.

The RX-7s include ventilated front disc brakes, an electric rear window defroster and side window demisters, reclining bucket seats, an AM-FM stereo radio with power antenna, cut-pile carpeting and a quartz clock. Among the 626's standard items are a five-speed manual transmission, AM-FM stereo radio, remote trunk lid release, intermittent windshield wipers, 60-40 split folding rear seat seatbacks, and a headlight reminder chime.

The GLC was upgraded last year with a more powerful 1415 cc engine because consumers and journalists thought the car was a bit underpowered. This year the GLC has undergone a facelift consisting of an aerodynamically sloped front hood and grill with rectangular headlights and signal lamps faired into the fenders; at the rear the tail lamps have been enlarged. Additional features have also been added to the already lengthy list of standard items for each GLC model.

Changes on the 1980 RX-7 include an improved mechanism for opening and removing the optional sunroof and an enlarged brake power assist unit. The RX-7 is also offered in a new range of colors, including a brilliant black.

The 626 has also added a few more features to its list of standard items, including a higher powered rear window defroster for added safety, a vanity mirror on the passenger's sunvisor, and an improved AM-FM stereo radio.

"The features and items we've added to our model line for 1980 improve the looks, performance and safety of our cars and, because there has been no price change, give the consumer even more for his money than he got last year," added Nakashima.

OLDSMOBILE

Oldsmobile's Engine of the future

The General Motors 5.7-litre V-8 diesel engine is offered as an option on three 1978 Oldsmobile models — the Eighty-Eight, Ninety-Eight and Custom Cruiser.

The engine shares many dimensions with the 350-cubic-inch gasoline V-8 which provided the starting point for the diesel conversion.

Many of the major components — block, heads, crank, pistons and rods — have been strengthened to handle the higher compression ratios.

Ignition in the GM diesel takes place in a pre-chamber added to minimize emissions, noise and smoke. Inside each pre-chamber there is an electric glow plug to assist in starting the engine. Dual 12-volt batteries provide the energy and the additional power for starting.

The diesel "wait to start" period is just a few seconds at 75 degrees Fahrenheit, 35 seconds at 32 degrees and about 60 seconds at zero degrees. Cold starts have been made at temperatures down to minus 10 degrees Fahrenheit and number one below that temperature.

The wait to start period is monitored by an electronic device that signals the driver with a small light in the instrument cluster when the engine is ready to start.

The fuel injection pump controls ignition by timing and metering the amount of fuel delivered to each cylinder. A rotary distributor-type injection pump is used. It performs for the diesel essentially the same functions as the distributor and carburetor in a gasoline engine. Timing of the injection pump will be permanently set at the factory.

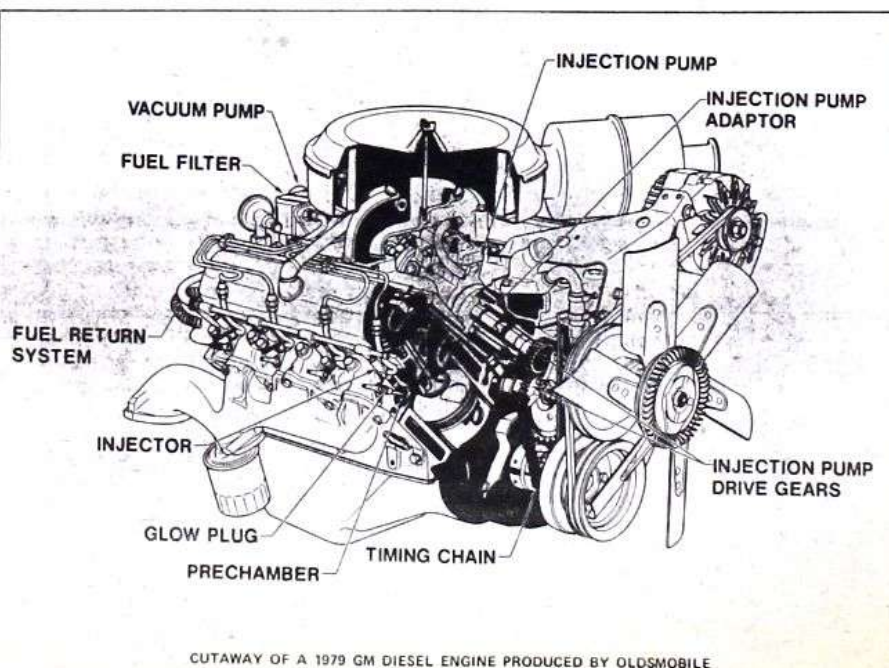

Oldsmobile tests show a fuel economy improvement of up to 25 percent over comparable gasoline engines. With a 27.3-gallon fuel tank, the diesel-powered Oldsmobile 88 and 98 coupes and sedans will have a cruising range of more than 600 miles.

Added body insulation on the front of the dash keeps the passenger compartment quiet. A muffler on the engine's air intake reduces the external diesel noise.

The diesel meets current emission standards without a catalytic converter or EGR (exhaust gas recirculation) valve because emissions are controlled within the diesel combustion process itself. A PCV (positive crankcase ventilation) valve is the only emission device on the Oldsmobile diesel cars.

Because the diesel has no points or plugs, these parts never need replacing. Oil and filter changes are required every 3,000 miles.

The Automobile is here to stay and is even better

BOB SEARCY, USED CAR MANAGER OF Harold Dietrich Buick says, "we have experienced a good year despite the pessimistic view expressed by the economists."

We are looking forward to an excellent year, with the constant replacement needs alone that exist in the auto industries. Russ Tell, new car manager of Harold Dietrich states that new car sales were also good this year but sees 1980 as a year with an even better market.

Bring back the horse and buggy? Never! Those days are only a memory.

The automobile is here to stay. Oh, it may change its appearance from year to year with a minor facelift or a major redesign, but our foremost method of transporting people from point A to point B will remain the same for a long time to come.

Supporting that theory is evident right here in our own Community with the construction on Michigan Avenue.

They are adding additional traffic lanes to accommodate our basic method of transportation, the motor car.

Obviously the demand is there and we at Mark fill that demand by offering the customer a professional sales team, high trade-ins and the latest in service.

New car sales manager, Jim Kotula, and used car manager, Bill Stamper, both agreed that the 1980's will see a great upsurge in auto sales.

The automobile industry has made giant strides in recent years producing the most fuel-efficient cars in decades.

See your new car dealer soon. Today's purchase costs less than tomorrow's.

The Dodge Mirada is an illusion.

It's a 1970 car wrapped in a 1980 skin, steeped in supercar tradition.

One look at its long hood, short deck and grand-touring face confirms this. Its 360-cubic-inch V8 is one of the largest passenger car engines offered by a domestic manufacturer; the sheet metal has Grand National racer written all over it.

This is but one of the fine cars in the 1980 line-up of Dodge products for you. Help us celebrate our 50th year in the same location in Wayne. View the entire 1980 selection of Dodge cars, vans and trucks.

We're enjoying our 50th year in selling fine products to the people of this area.

We say thanks to each and every one of you for this celebration.

JACK DEMMER FORD

Ford is introducing the most sweeping new model engineering, convenience, styling and fuel economy changes in history for 1980.

Our 1980 cars and trucks are designed for increased fuel economy and they offer a variety of new comfort and convenience features.

Ford's all new light-duty trucks are still "Built-Ford-Tough," but have aerodynamic styling, chassis and suspension innovations and powertrain advancements that provide substantial fuel-economy gains for 1980.

New car fuel economy improvements include an optional automatic overdrive transmission (AOD), a domestic industry first, and a new 4.2 liter V-8 engine. Both Thunderbird and LTD offer these options which saves fuel, reduces engine wear and improves performance.

A big plus for sales in the 1980 model year is Ford's big lineup of fuel-efficient, roomy small cars, including Granada, Fairmont, Mustang, Pinto, and Fiesta.

Ford historically has been the leader in the small car market and continues to maintain that leadership even more so far in 1980, at a time when fuel economy seems to be a very important topic of our sales conversations.

TV TATTLE

What do actors Robert Redford, Carol Burnett, Peter Falk, Art Carney and Don Rickles share in common with film director Paul Mazursky and author Brooke Hayward? They all had starring roles in the old "Twilight Zone" series. The series, which is still widely seen in syndication, was also an early break for such stars as Lee Marvin, Telly Savalas, Martin Balsam and Charles Bronson.

Theodore White, noted political historian and author of "The Making of the President" series of books (1960, 1964, 1968 and 1972), has been named consultant-commentator for NBC News during the 1980 election year.

White's "The Making of the President, 1980" will also be the basis for an NBC documentary to be telecast in early 1982, when the book is due to be published.

part drama about an ex-slave who becomes a U.S. senator, only to see freedom and democracy lost to terror and violence in the post-Civil War South. It's based on the novel by Howard Fast.

The film was used at a Miami parent participation TV workshop last month to illustrate how to teach youngsters non-violence. Ironical that a man who won fame bashing people should star in a film whose moral is non-violence.

The mini-series keep on coming. Now, "Condominium" is headed for production. It's the story of Florida highrise occupants, their shoddy built apartments and what happens when deadly Hurricane Ella blows in. Barbara Eden, Dan Haggerty, Ralph Bellamy, Richard Anderson and Pamela Hensley will star in the dramatization of John D. MacDonald's best-seller, scheduled to air next year.

CBS and the Library of Congress are participating in a joint project designed to encourage the public to read books, by providing information about titles related to certain CBS programs.

The first "Read All About It" announcement will follow Erich Maria Remarque's classic "All Quiet on the Western Front," scheduled for Nov. 14.

The 20th International Television Festival of Monte Carlo will take place Feb. 1 to 9. The idea is for program buyers and sellers to get together, the climax is an award night, with Prince Rainier and Princess Grace of Monaco at the close of the festival.

Neil Thackaberry Jr. and Edith Taylor Hunter are returning to the Hilberry Theater stage to play the adversaries turned lovers in a revival of Shakespeare's popular comedy, "Much Ado About Nothing", which opens Friday (Oct. 26). Curtain time will be 8:30 p.m.

The play will continue in the Hilberry repertory through Dec. 15. For further information about this and other Hilberry Theater productions, contact the theater box office, located on Cass and Hancock in Detroit, at 577-2972.

IN FOCUS

Now, video discs are about to enter market

Just as home video tape machines were becoming comfortable to have around the house, a new gadget is about to intrude upon the TV watching public: the video disc system.

It looks like a sleek record turntable and operates on much the same principle. The video disc is about the size of an LP, made of a sturdy vinyl-like material and coated with plastic to resist scratches. Place is on the player and lower the lid. As the disc picks up speed to 1800 rpm, it creates an air lock inside the player.

At this point, the school of video discs divides.

Magnavision's system is based on a laser: a tiny beam of light picks up the optical and sound signals of the disc and transmits them via a cable attached to a TV set's antenna terminals; it's also possible to hook on a stereo system in order to enhance the sound. The laser means that the disc never wears out, never gets scratchy and never skips, since nothing touches the surface. Unlike a record album, the video disc begins playing in the middle of the disc and the laser moves slowly to the outside.

RCA, which has millions invested in stereo technology and its record company, is currently testing a system using the more traditional stylus to play the disc. Magnavision (read: Magnavox) and RCA are racing to perfect their machines and be the first to introduce them to the consumer.

Why do we need such a machine, what with Sony's Betamax, etc.?

For one thing, video disc features will cost less than video cassettes, with half-hour programs beginning at about $5. Full-length movies will probably retail for about $25. Unlike the cassette, however, it won't be possible to buy a blank disc and record at home.

Magnavision is anxious to promote the educational advantages of its system, still being test marketed only in Atlanta and Seattle. "Our children have been raised on television, and the medium has had such an impact that many kids today almost demand an audio-visual component before they will learn," said a company spokesman. "Our special features, such as freeze frame and frame-by-frame indexing, make it an ideal educational tool to be used in conjunction with written materials." So far there are cooking lessons, sports training and needlecraft, as well as current and classic movies.

It can also be used to teach a foreign language, since it's equipped with multiple audio channels: Watch the same film in, say, English, then French, or Japanese and Spanish.

Ultimately what this kind of machine does is provide the viewer with control over the type and scheduling of the TV he or she watches. Rather than being a passive participant of the television-TV watcher partnership, one becomes the dictator. It's a role that will take some getting used to, since most of us have been long conditioned to accept the network-as-boss syndrome.

Flipping a career coin is tough for stars, too

By RUTH THOMPSON

Decisions, decisions! They're tough enough for the person with a regular income and an assured pension plan. But they're even worse for a segment of our society who reap measures of fame and acclaim: actors.

Because just talent and a good track record don't always bring the job you'd like. Somebody else could get the juicy role you KNOW you'd be right for. And when two prospects are dangled? Fairly good judgment alone doesn't assure the right choice. You need a touch of luck.

How do the thespians face up to the variables? Pretty well, according to three prominent actresses recently interviewed: Kathryn Walker, Frances Sternhagen and Mildred Natwick.

Kathryn, a tawny, well-bred leading lady type, says deciding on an acting career itself was her hardest choice. Recalling her two years at Harvard's graduate school she said it was the little theater she and group of contemporaries (among them John Lithgow, with whom she co-stars in the current movie, "Rich Kids") founded that put the real zing into her life. "The time came, of course, when I asked myself what my future would be if I went on to take a Ph.D. in Celtic studies."

The answer came up "dull." On the other hand, she feared she wasn't brassy enough to make the rounds of casting agents and face endless rejection. Luckily, she never had to. Along with such chums as Lithgow and Stockard Channing, she was hired for an entire summer of stock that led to New York's stage, the movies and television.

Still, she has a new batch of worries. She won't tie herself down to a television series at this point. She'd rather gamble on a lower income and good guest roles like her choice for the current season, an adaptation of Pulitzer Prize author John Cheever's

"O Youth and Beauty" (PBS, Oct. 31).

Mildred Natwick knows exactly what she's missed for a television role.

However, the veteran actress, currently starring on Broadway in "Bedroom Farce," is a positive thinker. She says, "It's a guest role in 'Hawaii Five-O,' and it was written especially for me and brings back a character I've done twice before. She's a mystery writer, a little bossy, who helps solve crimes." She has her fingers crossed that the producers put the script on ice until she gets a vacation from the play.

Frances Sternhagen lives a warm, wonderful double life as a suburban wife and mother (six children) and an actress of such skills that she has been five times nominated for Broadway's Tony Awards.

Currently she's on view on the big screen in a co-starring role in "Starting Over" with Burt Reynolds as a cheerfully bungling meddler trying to help a divorced man re-structure his life.

She is also viewable on the stage of New York's Century Theater in "On Golden Pond," as the wife of a salty curmudgeon and the mother of a liberated, divorced daughter.

The play -- heavily nominated at the last Tony time -- closed down for the summer. Coming back to it cost her some shots at new work. "But honestly, nothing I wanted ... or rather, nothing I wanted as much as this. All of us, Tom Aldridge, too, felt the same way."

Incidentally, during the summer, Ms. Sternhagen and Aldridge taped a drama special, "The Man Who Corrupted Hadleyburg," for PBS.

Rumor says that "On Golden Pond" may also evolve into a TV special.

Would Ms. S. reprise her role? "I don't think I'd be asked. All I've heard is rumors ... and that's that they would seek a big name like Katharine Hepburn. And honestly, I don't mind. I understand."

Sinatra leaves Egypt to sing for Reagan

By CINDY ADAMS

NEW YORK — Frank Sinatra said bye-bye to the Sphinx, the pyramids and the Sahara, changed his clothes and the same day he schlepped in from Egypt he showed at a blacktie fundraising dinner for Ronald Reagan in New Jersey. Sinatra revealed, "Sadat said to me personally that Egypt will never, ever fight another war again."

Gov. Reagan gave this explanation for his political career: "I got into politics because in Hollywood you either have to sing or dance, and if you don't do either one you end up as an after-dinner speaker."

From Kris Kristofferson: "I'm told I'm number one on the Boywatcher List of The Ten Most Watchable Guys. I don't know who voted or even what the thing means. I only know I agree totally." And from Joe Namath, who's also pretty watchable: "Having an affair with a woman never hurts a ballplayer. It's staying up all night looking for them that does you in."

Eli Wallach is co-starring with Steve McQueen in some Paramount thing, called "The Hunter." Angie Dickinson paid a visit to Mha Bacharach, mother of her son.

arated husband, Burt. Irma is recuperating after heart surgery.

Dyan Cannon is to play the wife of a middle-aged country singer who falls in love with a younger guy, in Warner Brothers' "Honeysuckle Rose," which has begun shooting in Austin, Texas.

Nancy Kissinger, who gave a luncheon for wives of visiting chiefs of state, smoked and drank cola throughout the whole meal. Guests flocking to the classy Kissinger apartment had to take the service elevator, which was stuffed with garbage: the regular elevator stalled on the 15th floor.

The annual Actors Studio benefit will be held Dec. 18 with a premiere of the Lee Strasberg-Art Carney-George Burns flick, "Going In Style," followed by a big supper party at Regines.

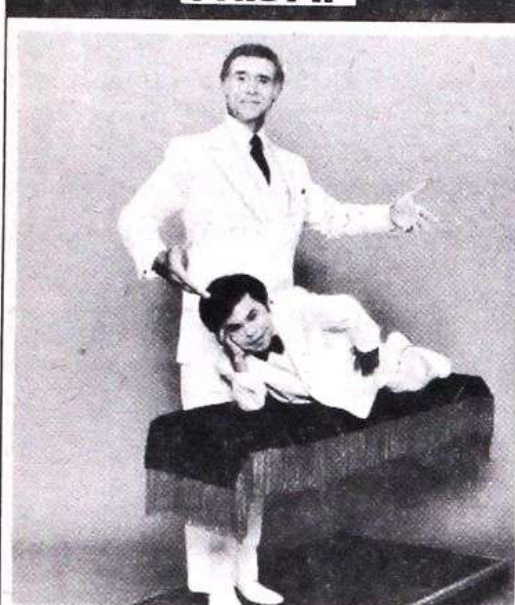

Henry Winkler razzberried a spinoff on Fonzie in another TV series. Bob Hope phoned a restaurant in New Orleans before he boarded a plane headed that way and pre-ordered the dinner he wanted that evening. Suzy Chaffee jogs daily in Grammercy Park ... and Jody Powell is uptight about an article blasting Jimmy Carter. "The Panama Canal Sellout," in the November issue of Penthouse.

Meadow Brook hall to observe anniversary

They're dipping into the family vaults to celebrate a golden anniversary at Meadow Brook Hall, a 100-room mansion where priceless antique and irreplaceable art treasures can be found in every room, and the public is invited.

Guests for opening night of the Golden Anniversary Stately Dinner Series will dine at tables set with the same gold-rimmed china and satin tablecloths used by former owners to celebrate their own special occasions. Antique silver normally not seen by the public will hold floral arrangements and candles.

Stately Dinners offer the rare experience of living, for a few hours, as American families of great wealth lived during the early part of the century. Structure, design and appointments of Meadow Brook Hall reflect the quality and lifestyle of that time, and Stately Dinners present dining in the context of historic and cultural enrichment.

This year's series marks the 50th anniversary of Meadow Brook Hall's completion. The hall originally belonged to Alfred and Matilda Wilson (she had been Matilda Dodge, widow of auto pioneer John Dodge). Cost for creation of the Tudor-style home was $4 million in 1929 dollars. The Wilsons bequeathed their entire 1,400-acre estate for the founding of Oakland University in Rochester, where it now serves as a cultural and conference center for the university. It is located on Adams Road, a third mile south of Walton Boulevard.

Opening Night menu offers fine American cuisine, in keeping with the Wilsons' pride in Meadow Brook Hall as an American home — built for Americans, by Americans, almost entirely of American materials. That did not prevent the family from collecting furnishings from all over the world, and subsequent dinners in the series offer foods of many nationalities.

Dinners will be Fridays — Nov. 2, English; Jan. 11, French; Feb. 8, Greek; March 7, German; April 18, French; May 9, English; June 13, French.

Complementary wives will be selected and discussed by Walter Rosenberg, who will be host for all Stately Dinner evenings.

Reservations are taken on a first-come basis. Dinners $45 per person. Prices include all wines and gratuities. All proceeds are used for the preservation of Meadow Brook Hall, a national historic site.

For reservations or further information, call Meadow Brook Hall at 377-3140.

Schoolcraft to present Insp. Hound

Schoolcraft College students will present their dinner-theater production of the mystery comedy "The Real Inspector Hound" on Nov. 2-3 and 16-17 in the Waterman Campus Center.

According to director Dale Feldpausch, author Tom Stoppard is a British dramatist who has written both dramas and comedies with much success on the London stage. His plays are characterized by absurd ideas and situations which reveal profound ideas from trivial experiences.

Technical director Larry Rudick described "The Real Inspector Hound" as a spoof of an Agatha Christie mystery which Stoppard presents "with prankish zest." The play is about Birdboot and Moon, two drama critics at an absurd tabloid thriller play who observe and comment and slowly become involved in the action.

Both critics get mixed up in the stage thriller's search, with the help of Inspector Hound, for a homicidal maniac (Continued on Page 11)

Pay special attention to loved one(s). The extra attention strengthens bonds and clears up any misunderstandings. Your better days occur during the last part of the week.

GEMINI May 22-June 21

Get what you can done during the first few days of this week since you have problems arising later. Listen carefully to one who is rather new to you and somewhat shy.

CANCER June 22-July 23

In order to succeed you must make the extra effort it will take. Set your goal and go for it. Don't step on toes in getting there, but don't let obstacles get in the way.

LEO July 24-August 23

Concentrate on home life for now and let business take its natural course. Don't push things; find other things to occupy your impatient mind. Change decor or buy something.

VIRGO August 24-Sept. 23

Find out what makes the other person tick and you've probably found their fault or weakness. To use it against them will surely bring out your own faults. Gain their trust.

LIBRA Sept. 24-Oct. 23

This is a good week for you and you'll get much accomplished. Don't let small distractions take you away from a goal. Take it easy this weekend.

SCORPIO Oct. 24-Nov. 22

The first four days of this week is a high cycle for you and it's best to make all arrangements to get things done now. News comes that you've been waiting for. Don't procrastinate.

SAGITTARIUS Nov. 23-Dec. 21

As this week starts for you, you are going slower than you'd like, but there's a reason. Don't rush. All good things take time and you must realize it. Hit the social scene.

CAPRICORN Dec. 22-Jan. 20

Handle important things yourself, but make sure you include loved one(s) in the areas that they can handle best. To do it all yourself is fine, but there is certainly loneliness at the top.

AQUARIUS Jan 21-Feb. 19

Legal matters take precedent over anything else right now. Perhaps there's an estate to settle? Make sure you seek the advice of one who knows the ins and outs. Take it easy this weekend.

PISCES Feb. 20-March 20

Listen to yourself and don't think you are exempt of blame because it's you talking! Sort things out with loved one and compromise. Don't make judgments about things you know nothing about.

John Singer Sargent exhibit

Edwadian age's life style

Turn of the century elegance has come to vivid life in the exhibition "John Singer Sargent and the Edwardian Age", which opened at the Detroit Institute of Arts Oct. 17. The exhibit will be open through Dec. 9.

This is the exclusive North American showing of some 100 portraits, drawings and watercolors by the favorite artist of high society. The exhibition was organized jointly by the Detroit Institute of Arts and by the Leeds Art Galleries and London's National Portrait Gallery in England.

The exhibition includes resplendent full-length portraits, many of them lent from English country houses and not seen publicly for more than half a century. Sargent (1856-1925) was the chronicler of late Victorian and Edwardian society. Rodin called him "The Van Dyck of our times."

The son of expatriate American parents, John Singer Sargent was born in Italy, learned his dazzling technique in the atelier of Carolus-Duran in Paris and cultivated his powers of characterization to the point where his sitters appear as real individuals rather than social stereotypes, despite their luxurious clothes and surroundings.

The early portraits he painted in France are subtle and sensitive.

The impact of impressionism, and of his friendship with Claude Monet in particular, can be traced in the vibrant landscapes and figure sketches done first in France and then in England during the 1880s.

Toward 1900, Sargent's patrons became increasingly aristocratic and he turned to Van Dyck and Reynolds for inspiration. His portraits of "The Acheson Sisters" and "A.J. Balfour" are in the great tradition of European portraiture, but his daring interpretation of the notorious Mme. Gautreau, well known to society despite the title "Madame X", created such shock waves in France that he decided to leave Paris and relocate in London. His popularity never again dwindled.

He was sought out by the world of high society, as well as the vibrant literary and theatrical personalities of this lively era. Sargent was a man of prodigious energy and, at the height of his career, was painting as many as 20 formal portraits a year.

Among the masterpieces in the exhibition are "Mrs. Carl Meyer and her Children" lent by Sir Anthony Meyer of London; "Edouard Pailleron" from the Musee National, Versailles; and "The Daughters of Edward D. Boit" from the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. Portrait sketches include "Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon" (now Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth the Queen Mother), Winston Churchill (in 1925 as Chancellor of the Exchequer) and, the symbol of the entire Edwardian Age, "Edward VII on his Death-Bed" (1910).

This first international exhibition of John Singer Sargent's figurative work is underwritten in Detroit by the Founders Society Detroit Institute of Arts and supported in part by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts and by a federal indemnity from the Federal Council on the Arts and the Humanities.

The exhibition is open to the public during regular museum hours — 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday (closed Mondays and holidays). Admission is $2; senior citizens and students with ID, $1; Founders members and children under 12, accompanied by an adult, no charge.

stalking around Lady Muldoon's Manor. The play moves fast and furious until the real Inspector Hound is identified, and the killer is apprehended.

Members of the cast include Marc Harlow, Chris Lindblom, Scott Muzinski, Joseph Rohatynski, and Larry Wilkin of Livonia; Phyllis Jo Counts of Canton, Kelly Norman of Northville and Tammy Bezrutch of Westland. Sandy Finkelstine is stage manager.

The 7 p.m. dinner will feature a buffet of roast beef and baked chicken, chef's salad, potato, vegetable, roll and butter, beverage and torte cake. The play will begin at 8:30 p.m.

Tickets are $10 per person and must be purchased in advance at the College Bookstore.

Further information may be obtained by calling the Bookstore at 591-6400, ext. 265.

25 Years of Chiropractic Service for Life and Health

DR. DAN ELWART

WE ARE OPEN 6 DAYS A WEEK WITH THREE CHIROPRACTORS TO SERVE YOU!

25 Years of Chiropractic Service!

Dr. Ray Elwart, director and founder of the Romulus Chiropractic Clinic, attracted people at such a rate that it is necessary to add another Chiropractor, his son Dr. Dan Elwart, to his staff along with Dr. Richard Newman, who joined Dr. Ray Elwart last year.

The three doctors have a combined Chiropractic Service of 25 years.

Dr. Ray Elwart said that the thousands of patients who have recovered their health are continuing to send us others who need life restored to them.

By continuous updating and expansion of our facilities, we look forward to many more years of serving our communities' health needs.

FREE CONSULTATIONS, ADJUSTMENTS AND CHIROPRACTIC EXAMINATIONS ARE BEING OFFERED AT THE ROMULUS CHIROPRACTIC CLINIC, P.C.

(See below for details.)

"Got Wonderful Relief" Says Col. Sanders

Kentucky Fried Chicken Man Keeps Fit With Chiropractic Care

In 1956, Harland Sanders was an out-of-work 66-year-old. Today he is a millionaire, and the business he started — known round the world as "Kentucky Fried Chicken" — grosses over one billion dollars a year.

The "Chicken" Colonial has become a legend in his time and it took less than twenty years. Now 85, he has visited a chiropractor usually once or twice a week for sixty years, as he says, to keep fit through the marvelous benefits derived from staying "in adjustment." It is unfortunate that many who have faith in chiropractic, nevertheless, do not use it as Colonel Sanders does on a preventive basis. Many wait until they have acute health problems before seeing their chiropractor. As soon as they feel better, they discontinue their visits. The Colonel is a living example of the benefits of regular chiropractic care — an amazing man. — PSCA Newsletter.

Editor's Note

These testimonials do not mean that chiropractic cures or guarantees a cure. They are to prove that, by removing nerve interference, the body heals itself.

SUFFERING NEEDLESSLY?

Millions are turning to chiropractic because they are recognizing the scientific principles of nature that have made spinal adjustments effective for many conditions where other methods have failed. The chart below shows the lateral view of the spinal column and indicates in section "A" names of the spinal nerves as they branch from the spinal cord and exit through openings between the vertebrae. All tissues, glands and organs supplied with life energy by these nerves are shown in the section marked "B" in the chart. The section marked "C" describes a partial list of the conditions and symptoms that can result when there is an absence of life in the nerves.

B Area Supplied by Nerves

Blood supply to the head, the pituitary gland, the scalp, bones of the face, the brain itself, inner and middle ear, the sympathetic nervous system.

Hemorrhoids or piles, pruritus or itching, pain at end of spine on sitting.

SPINAL NERVE INVOLVEMENT CAUSES MANY CONDITIONS

The spinal chart shown above is directed especially to those people who have tried to regain their health through methods other than chiropractic, and have failed. That failure should not lead to discouragement, but to greater determination to discover the fundamental cause of all disease.

Since the discovery of chiropractic, no one needs to feel that he or she is destined to be sick all their life. Remember, "Where there is life there is hope and he who has hope has everything."

A MESSAGE FROM THE MAYOR

City of Romulus

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR
11111 Wayne Road
Romulus, Michigan 48174

Dear Neighbor:

Much of what I have accomplished during this first term centers on the success of vastly improving the image of Romulus. We have done more than pave roads, break ground for a new seniors' complex, make recreational improvements and increase fire protection facilities. We have also been able to make neighboring communities, businesses, state and county leaders take note of Romulus.

Consequently, we now have a section of 170 new home sites under development, we have SEMTA bus lines running in Romulus and we have engaged the interest of commercial outlets considering a Romulus location. We have opened up direct communications with residents — through my personal availability to citizens, through the initiation of a city-wide newsletter, and through community meetings — a key part of the highly successful Neighborhood Watch Program.

In short, we have upgraded our city's pride, begun to modernize our community's appearance and provided more services — all within the resource of our residents.

As your Mayor and a candidate for re-election, no one appreciates more than I that each vote is a critical one. Please help support our joint commitment to stable, sound leadership by giving me your vote for re-election on Tuesday, November 6th.

Warmest Regards:

William M. Oakley
